Ulster Sewer Construction to Start Next Week

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

LAKE KATRINE

Town of Ulster residents received the good news Thursday night that actual construction of its long-awaited sewers will start next week and that the interceptor sewer pipes are now at the site.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino told the Town Board that the pipes had arrived and Budd Randle Inc., contractors of Oakland, N. J., are expected to start actual installation early next week on the $4.5 million improvement project.

The town has already advertised for bids for the proposed sewerage treatment plant for the system estimated by the engineers at $944,000. Bids will be opened Thursday, June 17, at 7 p. m. in town offices, Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

The board also approved the sale of bonds to finance the first phase of the contract. The total bond issue will be for about $400,000.

Mrs. Shirley Kobran, co-chairman of the Environmental Task Force, who with the cooperation of town officials has been conducting recycling drives in the township, commended the supervisor, superintendent of highways, Edgar Elliott and the Town Board for their cooperation.

She noted that the last recycling drive in the town was most successful and observed that recycling of all these materials saves valuable space at the town landfill site.

Mrs. Kobran asked for permission to conduct another drive on Saturday, June 19, and the board approved the project. The town's constabulary and it was town garage at Spring Lake and discovered that these cars are contract and immediate delivery great growth in the township in that time period.

The Town Board renewed the two street lighting contracts with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp., and a reduction of rate was noted in the new one-year pact.

Only one bid was received for a highway roller for the town's Highway Department. The bid, Ken Smith Machinery of Albany, was awarded the $9,977 they were in 1967, indicating the alleviating a dusty condition.

Sabino reported that the town ran into some trouble with the State Environmental Conservation Department recently when officials from Albany stopped the dumping of old tires in a ravine on the Richard Boice farm near Esopus Creek. The town received permission to dump the tires into the ravine and agreed to cover it with earth when completed. However, the Conservation officials claimed the tires were polluting the creek because of runoff through the ravine. Sabino said he checked the situation with the County Health Department and was advised that the tires supervisor, superintendent of highways, Edgar Elliott and the Town Board for their cooperation.

Sabino advised that in order to avoid the controversy, he halted the project at the ravine and that future dumping of hardware and tires will be at the town's other landfill near the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge. In regard to a complaint of junk cars off Route 28A, Sabino said this was checked by the board approved the project. The town's constabulary and it was

New Saugerties Delay On Building Code

Adoption of a local law implementing the State Building Code for the Town of Saugerties ran into further delay at Thursday night's Town Board meeting when another petition was filed against the enabling legislation.

The petition asked for a public referendum on the proposed law. Town Attorney Richard B. Overbagh advised that a public referendum was not necessary and that a public hearing had been held on the subject late in April. No serious objections were evident at that time. The board again delayed action on adoption pending further study.

The dumping of dyes and solubles at the town's landfill by Ferrocube Corp., has been halted, according to Councilman George Turner, who said the Board of Health contended that these materials could be harmful if seepage into the ground occurs. Turner said he is working with the firm to resolve the problem for both the town and the industry.

The Town Board approved seven trailer applications submitted by Building Inspector Walter Johnson. They include Joseph Hinchey Jr., Mt. Airy Road; Jean and Paul Carrier, Mt. Airy Road; Richard T. Palkon, Glasco Turnpike; Richard H. Krommenhoek, Band Camp Road; Mary E. Bretscher, Van Buskirk Road; George D. Gippert, Mt. Marion Road; Frits Schaafsma, Kelly Road. The latter was approved with the provision that a collapsed structure on the premises not be reconstructed into living quarters.

Several queries were made by town residents during the town forum portion of the meeting.

Town Attorney Overbagh answered a query about the status of the Camp Fire Girls property at Veteran donated to the town for recreation purposes. He noted that title had not yet been cleared. In regard to the construction of another Babe Ruth League field at Cantine Memorial Park, Councilman Bernard M. Rinaldi, recreation commissioner, said there was a Babe Ruth League field already at the recreation facility and at the present time he thought this was adequate.

Another inquiry was made about the regulation of mini-bikes. The report by the resident noted that there was racing of mini bikes at Jaycees Memorial Park. Town Clerk Marion Newkirk has written to the Association of Towns for information on legislation in regard to controls and has not received an answer to date.

The filling of a ravine off Route 9W on the Scarselli property raised the question whether the stream would be blocked. Supervisor A. Michael Schovel reported he had conferred with Scarselli and was informed that the stream would not be blocked.

Dad Has His Day Early, Delivers Own Baby

“I just delivered my own baby!”

David Skulnik of Accord was understandably shook when he telephoned The Daily Freeman this morning to report that his wife, Sandra, 29, had just given birth to their third son, Daniel, who weighed in at six pounds 11 and one-half ounces.

“Everything happened so fast,” he explained. Dr. Charles Cullen of Stone Ridge was contacted along with the ambulance from Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad but by the time they arrived Papa Skulnik had things well under control.

Skulnik, 34, who manages Tip Top Pullets Poultry Farm in Accord, is a member of the First Aid Squad. He and his wife are the parents of two other children, Roy, 4, and Matthew 16 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kelder of Accord, also members of the squad and neighbors of the Skulniks, were notified by the dispatcher and assisted in the after-birth. Responding to the call were Julius Herschowsky, Renee Kellogg and Floyd Countryman Jr.

Mother and son are doing nicely in Kingston Hospital. Dad is still trying to catch his breath.

Eve of Expected White House Word

Racial Charges Cited in Home Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the eve of a presidential statement expected to rule out federal efforts to open suburban housing to the poor, the Civil Rights Commission accused the government of condoning racial segregation in its major home ownership subsidy program. Although the government's mortgage aid effort known as the 235 Program should broaden housing opportunities, the commission said, it has instead furthered the traditional pattern of placing blacks in older, inner city houses and whites in new suburban dwellings.

"Federal Housing Administration officials are aware of the segregated housing pattern that has developed under the 235 Program," the independent fact-finding unit said in a 121-page report. "But despite the agency's legal obligation to prevent it, FHA has failed to adopt even minimal steps to fulfill this obligation," the commission said.

In an expected preview of President Nixon's policy announcement today, Housing Secretary George Romney defended housing aid programs furthering racial isolation. President Nixon had indicated he would reject this reading of the law. He said on separate occasions there patterns, they should be barred from receiving any federal assistance or participating in any efforts to change the economic patterns of a neighborhood.

In addition, even where overt discrimination is not apparent, when the data indicate that policies and practices are having the effect of creating or perpetuating segregation, the Department of Housing and Urban Development should take remedial action to prevent these concentrations," he said.

FTC Hits Out At the Claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Slipping behind the wheel of an Armadillo G18. Relax for just a moment in unmatched extra room and comfort. Then crank up the most eager power plant in its class and savor a command of the road you've never known."

If you've ever seen an automobile advertisement like that and wondered what "command of the road" meant, what "its class" is or what "extra room and comfort" is compared to, help is on the way.

The Federal Trade Commission announced Thursday it will demand advertisers either document their claims or face deceptive advertising charges.

Robert Pitofsky, head of FTC's bureau of consumer protection, said the policy will be implemented first in the auto industry within the next 30 days, then gradually extended to other big advertisers.

Pitofsky said the agency won't be able to do much with claims about how great something tastes. "But if a firm advertises its product as being twice as good at half the cost as any other product in its class, we will ask how that can be proved."

The new FTC policy, adopted in response to a petition last December by consumer rights advocate Ralph Nader, represents the second recent victory by those seeking tougher advertising rules.

The FTC also is trying to force deceptive advertisers to admit in future ads that past ads were misleading.

Nader and his associates were restrained in their reactions to the FTC decision because, they indicated, consumers seeking documentation will have to go through the agency rather than directly to the firm.

"We think it's a small step for the consumer and a giant step for the Federal Trade Commission," said Aileen Cowan, one of the attorneys who prepared the petition.

Mrs. Cowan helped prepare the suit by spending more than a year monitoring ads. She sent letters asking 58 firms to substantiate 68 claims. Only three firms supplied any documentation, she said.

Among auto makers, General Motors did not reply to questions by Nader about claims Oldsmobile's Toronado engine gives "worry-free performance thousands of miles longer."

Nader's letters to Ford Motor Co. last year resulted in disclosure of the cancellation of some advertisements that turned out mistaken.

Ford said it stopped advertising its Torino as the lowest-priced car "in its class" after discovering another model of Ford was $3 cheaper. The firm never did define "in its class."

A Dishonorable, Fine In Kickback Case

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI)—M.Sgt. William E. Higdon was sentenced to a dishonorable discharge and fined $25,000 Thursday by a military jury which convicted him of accepting kickbacks and misappropriating funds while operating an enlisted men's club in Vietnam.

The barrel-chested, 240-pound Army veteran, who still faces a federal court trial in Los Angeles in the wake of a congressional probe of alleged corruption in the military club system, said he was "very disappointed."

"I've been a soldier over 24 years and until the appeal process, I am still a soldier," he added.

Higdon, 41, whose wife sat quietly in the courtroom while he stood at attention as the sentence was read, also was ordered to forfeit all pay and allowances. However, he was not sentenced to prison.

The sentence will be reviewed by Gen. Edwin I. Donnelly, the officer who convened the court-martial at Redstone Arsenal.

WILLIAM HIGDON

and by the Judge Advocate General's office in Washington.

The sergeant was convicted of graft and larceny by the five-officer jury panel for accepting a kickback on a refrigeration contract and misappropriating cigarette promotion money intended for a club he operated at Long Binh, Vietnam, in 1967 and 1968.

The maximum sentence he could have received on the counts of the conviction was eight years at hard labor and dishonorable discharge. Higdon said in his sworn testimony during the penalty phase of the trial he had in his possession documents which only he could identify, but refused to allow defense attorneys to introduce them as evidence.

"There are innocent people who have a right to a fair trial in court and I didn't want to jeopardize their rights," said Higdon, who did not take the stand during 21 days of testimony.

One of the six other non-commissioned officers who will stand trial with Higdon in Federal Court in Los Angeles August on the corruption charges is William O. Wooldridge, former Sergeant Major of the Army—the top enlisted man in the service.

Cuba Detains 13 Americans

MIAMI (UPI) — Thirteen Americans are being detained today by the Cuban government for alleged illegal entry into Cuba and eight of them must face a "revolutionary tribunal" to decide their fate.

Radio Havana monitored here gave the first accounts of the arrests Thursday and linked them with the conviction of four young Cuban fishermen this week in Key West.

They are serving six months in jail in lieu of $10,000 fines. Cuba called the sentences one "of so many disgraceful chapters in the history of that imperialist country."

Early today the four Cubans were resting in their Monroe County Jail cell, reading books in Spanish provided by a representative of Czechoslovakia. Thursday the Cuban government ordered defense attorneys not to appeal the convictions, and not to pay any fines.

The fishermen had been accused of fishing within 12 miles of the remote Dry Tortugas in the Gulf of Mexico. Their contention that they were not within 12 miles was held inadmissible in court. Radio Havana said there would be no appeal "because it considers the American judges and courts venal instruments of Yankee imperialism, unworthy of the slightest trust or respect."

The first American arrested was Fritz Spandell, 16, of Whitehall, Pa., who set out to paddle across the Gulf from Key West May 20. He was on a marathon trip from New York to Los Angeles.

He arrived in Cayo Megano, Cuba, May 22 when bad weather forced him off course. State Department sources said at first arrangements were made to fly him to Miami on one of the daily "Freedom Flights" to Miami.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Saturday

Tonight, will find showers and thundershowers scattered over parts of Florida, the upper Mississippi valley and the mid Plains. Elsewhere, fair to partly cloudy skies should prevail. Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 66, Boston 51, Chicago 64, Denver 50, Duluth 53, Ft. Worth 75, Jacksonville 73, Kansas City 71, Los Angeles 57, Miami 75, New Orleans 71, New York 60, San Francisco 53, Seattle 47, St. Louis 70 and Washington 60 degrees.

Guardsmen Return Tonight From Camp Drum Training

CAMP DRUM
With the two weeks of annual training at Camp Drum now completed, men of the 1st Battalion, 156th Field Artillery, return to their home bases tonight.

The Battalion includes headquarters and service batteries from Kingston. Preliminary plans called for the military convoy to leave from the upstate Army base this afternoon. The trip via New York State highways and the New York State Thruway is expected to take seven hours, with one scheduled stop for a motor maintenance check. Guardsmen should be in their home armories by midnight. Upon arrival the men will unload equipment from the vehicles prior to dismissal. Dismissal is expected to come some time around 1 a.m. Saturday. The two week tour is being hailed by Battalion officers as a success. "During the training period, two firing batteries performed admirably on Army tests and the rest of the Battalion displayed the ability to work skillfully in all areas," noted an official. Lt. Colonel Karl C. Verbeck is the commanding officer of the 156th Field Artillery. Battery A of Poughkeepsie and Batteries B and C of Newburgh are trained in the operation of the 155 self-propelled howitzer. Headquarters and service batteries from Kingston provide support. Meanwhile, it was announced that the two Dutchess County Guardsmen who this week helped to rescue five men from a smoke-filled building have been recommended for a pair of Army commendations. Verbeck has recommended that PFC Harry Jarosak of Stormville and Pvt. John Heck, Jr., of Hyde Park, both members of Battery A from Poughkeepsie, be awarded the Soldier's Medal and the State Medal of Valor. The Guardsmen were on fire watch at 3:20 a. m. Sunday when flames began to shoot up in a furnace in one of the Battalion's barracks. While Pvt. Heck called the local fire company, PFC Jarosak assisted one man out of the structure. When Heck returned, he donned an oxygen mask, entered the building and aided the other occupants. More than 1,000 Army vehicles, carrying some 7,600 Guardsmen of the 50th Armored Division, New Jersey will leave Camp Drum today and Saturday and will proceed down the New York State Thruway to their home base. Several elements of the Division will bivouac tonight at Catskill and Wallkill. Late Saturday afternoon six other serials will exit from the Thruway at New Paltz for an overnight bivouac before resuming the trip to New Jersey on Sunday.

What You Can Do About Dangerous Drugs

The Changing Laws

(Ninth and Last in Series)
By ALTON BLAKESLEE

Associated Press Science Editor

Laws governing use and abuse of mind drugs are changing. In general, they are reducing the penalty just for having marijuana, and they are hitting harder at drug pushers.

Until May 1971, simple possession of marijuana for personal use was a felony under federal law. Conviction meant a jail term of two to 10 years, and loss of voting rights, and a permanent blot on your record.

Now, simple possession on the first offense has been reduced to a misdemeanor. The youthful offender can be placed on probation and if conditions are properly fulfilled, there is no public record of the arrest. But repeated offenses bring terms in prison.

State laws vary widely, so parents should apprise themselves of what they are. They range from Nebraska's most lenient law now of seven days in jail for possession of marijuana to Texas where for years the sentence has been two years to life imprisonment. More than half the states have recently amended laws to be less severe about marijuana. In federal law, possession of LSD, which is far more potent a drug, for personal use was in 1968 made a misdemeanor having before that been no federal crime at all.

The new federal laws slams down hard on the professional drug pusher, especially of hard narcotics. For the first offense, the sentence can be a minimum of 10 years, and a maximum of life imprisonment and a prescribed maximum fine of up to $100,000, and forfeiture of all profits from the illegal selling and the pusher might lose personal assets, such as his house. The second offense sort of doubles the penalties—except of course that the pusher has only one life to serve up.

Meanwhile, a debate zips along whether marijuana should or shouldn't be made a legalized drug. Proponents argue that it is usually mild, that it isn't a narcotic nor an addictive drug, that one should be allowed to enjoy what he enjoys, that it offers a way to relax and fantasize, that content and quality could be legally controlled.

Opponents to legalizing marijuana say: Not enough is known of effects from long-term use; if we have six million alcoholics or rum-heads, why should we risk also having "X" millions of pot-heads? Legalization might bring "quality control" as with other drugs but also the illegal invitation to sell something more potent at a premium. How many alcoholics, it is asked, would turn to pot instead of drink for the relief or rewards they find in drink?

What is agreed upon, from both points of view, is that pot most likely is here to stay. The legalization argument extends to other drugs as well—as, for example, that there might be less crime if heroin were legally available for those hooked upon it, or wanting to be weaned from it. Here, a counter view is that more people might become dependent upon mind drugs, less attentive to their best roles in life.

Many more mind-influencing drugs are bound to come along, most from the continuing scientific search to develop drugs that truly can help people, others from bootleg laboratories, authorities predict.

Meanwhile, research continues to determine the long-term effects from using marijuana, and to fix the place in treating heroin addicts, or at least some of them, with methadone, a synthetic narcotic that appeases the hunger for opiates without producing the high that heroin brings. A search continues for other substitute or antagonist drugs. And so does research.

Lenefsky to Give Views

WEST SHOKAN David Lenefsky, West Shokan lawyer, and the Democratic candidate for State Senator from Ulster and Dutchess Counties in last November's election, will go on WGHQ radio Monday at 6:05 p.m. to present his views on the New York State Legislative session.

Lenefsky intends to "sharply criticize the Republican Legislators, for their contemptuous disregard for the people who pay their salaries."

In announcing his intention to rebut Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and Senator Jay P. Rolison, Lenefsky said "Albany has sunk to the muddy bottom of pernicious politics in its handling of the taxation, education and welfare issues."

"I shall talk about these, and other issues, on Monday evening," Lenefsky said, "in the same kind of detail I did during the campaign. The purpose of my purchasing time on radio," Lenefsky concluded, "is to give the people of Ulster County a true accounting of the bad deal they have again received in Albany."

The May Day Clash

Civil libertarians, including a U.S. senator, a former attorney general and a mixed bag of columnists and commentators, continue to talk and write as if the May Day clash between police and protestors in Washington was a replay of the charge of the Cossacks against the people in front of the czar's palace.

Amid all the alarm expressed about constitutional rights ridden roughshod over by the police, one truth is ignored:

Any government which cannot or will not defend itself, which permits itself to be impeded or intimidated by a mob take-over of the streets of its capital and the offices of its buildings, will soon be no government at all. And when government goes, there goes everybody's constitutional rights.

To disagree with the handwringers is not necessarily to go to the other extreme, however.

One need not subscribe to the charge made by Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst that it was a "vicious and wanton mob attack on Washington," whose leaders were in cahoots with the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

Indeed, much more disturbing is the thought that these may have been sincere, patriotic Americans who really believed that this was the way national policy should be decided.

Nor is there any need to deny that when some 12,000 people are rounded up off the streets and herded into detention camps, there will undoubtedly be a lot of entirely innocent people among them and undoubtedly any number of instances of police misjudgment and unnecessary roughness—in short, a great deal of bruising of individual constitutional rights.

But then, one does not stop in the middle of the road to argue constitutional rights when a police car or ambulance with flashing lights and screaming siren demands the right of way.

The May Day assault on Washington was just such an emergency. Here were thousands of people—"kids," they called themselves—descending on the nation's capital with the openly avowed intention of "shutting the government down."

Their appearance, opinions or age had nothing to do with it. Had the American Legion, the Jaycees or the Women's Christian Temperance Union flocked to Washington with the same purpose, they could have expected, and deserved, exactly the same treatment.

It is claimed that the government had no intention of prosecuting all 12,000 demonstrators and that their release the next day was proof that constitutional rights had been abrogated.

It would make as much sense to decry a mandatory mass inoculation by health authorities when they know that only a handful of people may be infected with a particular disease.

The roundup of demonstrators—and hapless nondemonstrators—was a form of inoculation, a form of preventive medicine against something that could have become seriously virulent if it had been allowed to run its own course.

It saved the government—not from collapse or revolution but from a blow to its legitimacy it might never have quite recovered from. And by government is meant not just the Nixon administration but all succeeding administrations.

The roundup was lamentable, distasteful, thoroughly un-American. It is to be hoped it never happens again. By acting firmly and decisively, the Washington, D. C., police may have ensured that it does not happen again.

Most Share in America

Even if you don't own a share of stock, you may own a share in America. A study by the New York Stock Exchange shows that nearly two out of three Americans have a direct or indirect stake in the level of stock market prices.

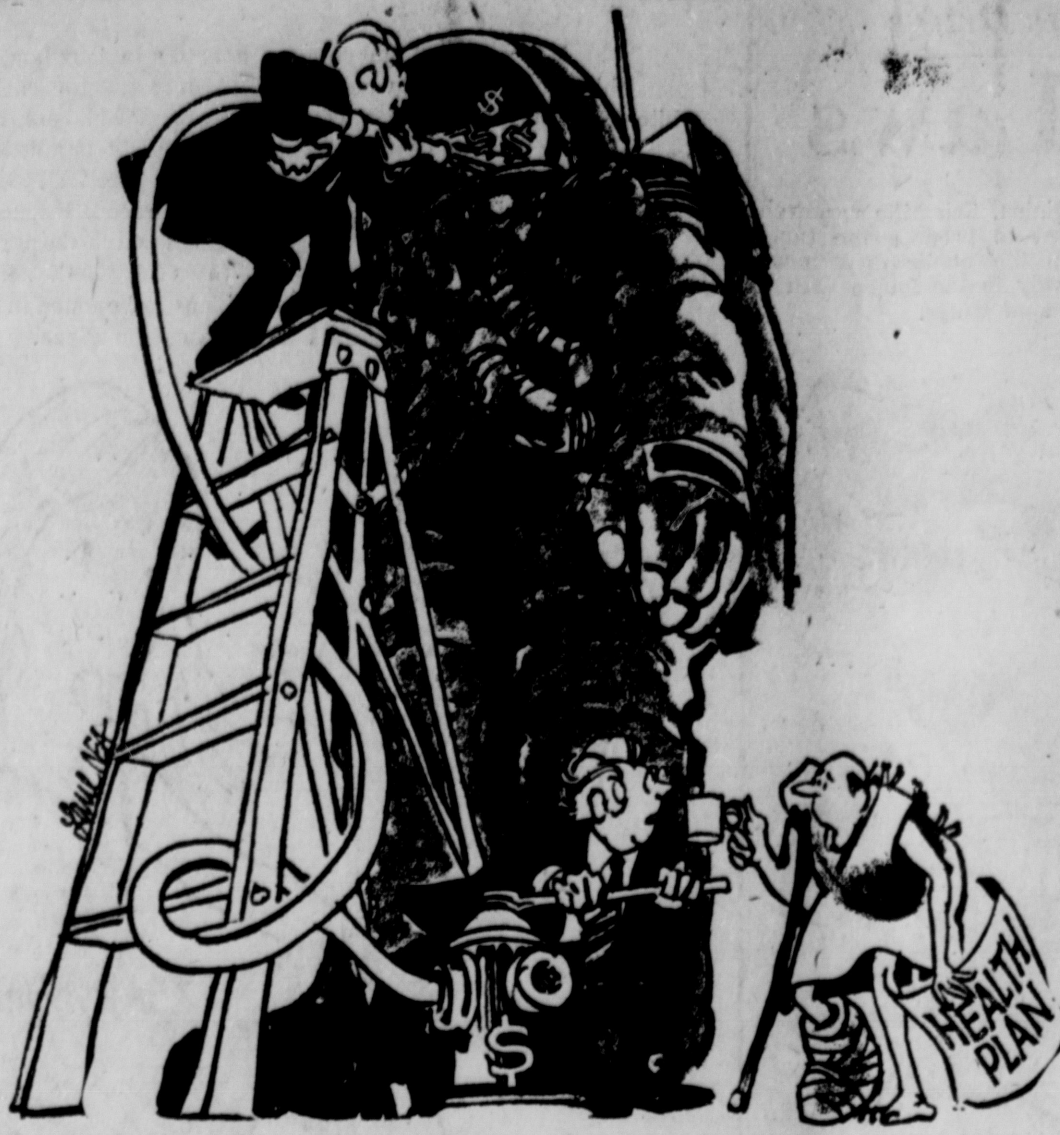

Directly involved are the 31 million Americans who own shares. Another 106 million are indirect owners. Their shares are owned by insurance companies, pension plans and other forms of institutional investment—mutual savings banks, fire and casualty companies, and college endowment funds.

"At 106 million, the number of indirect shareholders is reaching its saturation level and is not likely to undergo dramatic growth in the future," according to Stan West, the Big Board's research director.

By way of explanation, West said that 40 per cent of the population, which totaled 205 million in 1970, is under 21 years of age. While this segment is growing faster than the older brackets, it has negligible financial holdings.

When the stock market booms or is depressed, you'd better be interested. Your own fortune may be involved, even if you don't know it.

The District of Columbia has come up with a two-line tax form that, if adapted in the states that have income taxes, can simplify the process for millions. The lines would contain two blanks to be filled in: The amount of the taxpayer's federal income tax and 24 per cent of the first figure. Simple, but painful.

"Sorry, but This Is Necessary for the Health of the Nation!"

David Lawrence Says Federal Revenue Sharing Needs Careful Examination

WASHINGTON — "Revenue sharing" by the federal government with state and local governments has been discussed for some time now, but there is no agreement in Congress as to just how the formula would be applied and how much money should be allocated to particular states and localities.

In theory, it is a good idea to give state and local governments more money, because there are many which have inordinate expenses and not enough tax revenue to pay for improvements that must be made. But, on the other hand, President Nixon has proposed that five billion dollars be distributed with no restriction as to how the funds shall be spent. Various members of Congress think that there should at least be certain provisions made as to the nature of the projects for which the money should be used.

The state governors are finding it difficult to get support for the revenue sharing measure in Congress. They say the state and cities will run into fiscal difficulties unless they are given federal aid, and the governors insist that in some instances states have reached a crisis which must be met at once. At a hearing this week before a Senate subcommittee, Gov. Frank Licht of Rhode Island said:

"State and local governments together spend more than twice as much as the federal government to provide non-military services for citizens. The cost of these services is 132 billion dollars, which is a 12 fold increase since World War II. Moreover, costs for state and local services have increased three times as fast as the growth in federal expenditures."

Governor Linwood Holton of Virginia told the same subcommittee this week that his state raised taxes 155 per cent in the decade between 1959 and 1969. He added:

"Contrast this with the federal tax picture. Since 1950 there have been three major federal tax cuts. Virginia has had no major tax cuts in this period, but rather has imposed a new four per cent sales tax and tapped a multitude of additional state and local tax sources such as alcohol and cigarette taxes, auto titling, increases in the license plate and gas taxes."

Unquestionably, many senators and representatives feel that strong safeguards must be inserted in the appropriation laws to make sure that shared federal revenues will not be spent in a discriminatory manner, and that the money will be an incentive for tax reform by state and local governments.

Naturally, the states and cities are in no position to give guarantees at this time that they will be able to put into effect tax changes suitable to the members of Congress. Measures of this kind are subject to the will of the people in the states and the cities, and tax laws are delicate matters to deal with.

The whole question of federal revenue sharing has become a vulnerable political question affecting national legislators who are trying to get assurances that their own areas will be allocated substantial sums. Governors likewise want to make sure that their states will receive an adequate supply of money to help rebuild many of the cities.

It is doubtful whether five billion dollars will ever cover the cost of what the states and cities will want once the revenue-sharing plan gets underway. Many projects will be started which will need further financial assistance from the federal government. Governors in the more populous state will be seeking large sums, while the smaller states will feel they have been unjustly treated unless they similarly are given adequate funds to accomplish the same reforms that other states will be able to obtain.

It begins to look as if the whole measure will need not only further study by committees in Congress but a good deal of careful examination by state and local governments. A plan will have to be devised which will clarify the purposes of federal aid and make it possible to share the revenues with states and cities on a basis which will be generally regarded as an equitable system of allocation.

EMPHYSEMA WILL LEAVE YOU BREATHLESS — AND DEAD

There is a word called emphysema which no one wants to use. It's the flat tire which stops 50,000 human lives every year. The rest of the car may be in good condition, but when those two lacy lungs collapse, the car swerves into a six-foot ditch — with flowers on top.

There is a tall, self-effacing doctor at the University of Miami whose name is Myron Segal. He's an optimist. He thinks that human weaknesses can be cured, stopped or corrected if caught in time. The difference between Dr. Segal and the rest of us is that we don't go to the family doctor until we are permanently breathless. All he can do is wait.

Doctor Segal is a chest surgeon. He cuts through chest cages and takes out black lungs. Like all of the others in his field, if he can't cure you, he can try to make you stay on a little longer in comfort.

We talked. I made notes on emphysema. He watched me smoke one cigarette after another. He made no comment. Sitting at the table was Pat Mascola, who has established the National Emphysema Foundation. Pat had a couple of cases of emphysema in his family and he wants to slow the affliction, or stop it.

What is emphysema? To comprehend, we must first understand the human lungs. They are a pair of sponges which, when we inhale, carry oxygen down the trachea through bronchial tubes to the lungs. Lungs, contrary to what you may have heard, consist of one large one on the right side, which does 55 per cent of the work, and one on the left side, which, because of the presence of the heart, does less — 45 per cent. Both lungs have 300,000,000 alveoli. These are tiny cut-outs, like the holes in doughnuts. They absorb the oxygen we breathe and pass it into the bloodstream. They also take old blood and discharge the garbage — the carbon dioxide — from the breath you exhale. Each time you draw a breath of life, you inhale about 500 to 700 cc's of air. Roughly, a pint.

Emphysema can come from smoking, from working in polluted air, from age. The symptoms are self-evident.

1. Shortness of breath. Not swiftly. Not in times of stress. Slowly, steadily, inexorably. It displays itself first in mild exercise. The patient puffs. Later, the patient opens his mouth to breathe while walking. Still later, he will do it sitting.

The reason for this is that the alveoli have broken down and merged in masses. There are fewer of them, and they lose their elasticity. The patient breathes, but the oxygen isn't getting to the bloodstream, and the poisonous carbon dioxide isn't getting out. He is losing in two ways.

2. The chest grows in size. It is working overtime to accommodate the losses in good oxygen and the retention of bad carbon dioxide. Soon, the chest will grow no more and the patient starts to breathe by lifting his shoulders. This is a mechanical crutch.

3. The lungs are failing. The 10-ounce heart tries to take up the slack. It works harder. It pounds when the patient is sleeping. Down at the bottom of the lungs, the hair-like cilia, which, like waving swale grass in a breeze, move air into the remote recesses of the lungs, shorten and die off. Air stops going down there.

Emphysema is not asthma. Asthma is an infection of the bronchioles. It can be caused by an allergy, bronchitis, even heart failure. Looking from the throat downward, the human has a trachea, bronchial tubes and smaller branches, all of which appear to be a tree upside down.

Hundreds of thousands of emphysema patients walk the streets carrying small tanks of oxygen in their pockets. The effort to exhale the next breath is distressing. About eight of every 100 people you pass have it. And yet, few people except the medical scientists discuss it. Trying to catch that next breath is akin to having a wet woolen blanket pressed against your mouth and nose. At the least, it is terrifying.

There are new lung tanks which can help. Not long ago, they were efficacious for three hours. Now they can make an emphysema patient comfortable for 10 hours. In another decade, there will be better portable machines.

Dr. Segal and all his confreres remind me of a mechanic working under a busted automobile. All the customer says is: "Okay, Make the thing run!"

Jack Anderson Says Army Colonel Is Lobbying For Food Brokers, Good Job

WASHINGTON — The military commissary system's chief coordinator, Col. Robert Hammele, has been lobbying busily for the food brokers who sell to commissaries.

But unlike most military men who jump into the industries they once benefitted, Hammele is lobbying while he remains in the Army.

The enterprising colonel, a World War II hero, is Defense Secretary Mel Laird's representative on the Interservice Commissary Store Coordinating Committee.

The five-man committee is supposed to coordinate the purchasing practices of the $2 billion commissary system, which was set up as a low-cost market chain for servicemen's wives.

Hammele has often echoed the views of the Defense Supply Association, the powerful brokers' lobby, on commissary buying. It may have been natural, therefore, that he should discuss his retirement prospects with General Andy McNamara, the association's boss.

The two men had a heart-to-heart talk about May 10, and the amiable McNamara offered Hammele a $12,000-a-year executive post with the lobbying organization. The salary, of course, would be added to his Army pension.

Upping the Ante

Hammele held out for more money, but continued to make decisions affecting the brokers' lobby. He didn't even bother to notify his boss, Maj. Gen. Leo Benade, of the job offer.

Only 10 days after Hammele received the $12,000 offer, he helped to prepare a memo for General Benade on a new buying plan. Under the plan, the Army would base its food purchases on surveys of what the housewives wanted. Small businesses would also be given a better break. It is estimated the plan would save Army housewives up to $100 million a year — a savings that would be tripled if the plan were adopted by all the services.

But the big brokers, who would lose some of their inside deals, are naturally opposed to the plan. The memo that Hammele helped to prepare sides with the big brokers.

Exactly 11 days after the memo was submitted, Hammele got a better offer from the brokers' lobby. The pleased General McNamara offered Hammele $15,000 a year. The colonel, now satisfied, tentatively accepted the higher offer, subject to his expected retirement this fall.

Hammele acknowledged to us the details of his job offer and his work on the memo. But he denied any conflicts, saying: "I criticized the plan long before I ever thought of the Defense Supply Association. This offer had no effect on my position."

Sex Movies

While President Nixon plays Sir Galahad in the war against pornography, at least one member of his administration has been cashing in on the boom in X-rated sex films.

"There will be no relaxation of the national effort to control and eliminate smut from our national life," the President recently promised.

Meanwhile, Nixon's Voice of America director, Kenneth Giddens, part owner of the Giddens and Rester theater chain, Mobile, Ala., has benefitted from the brisk business in X-rated movies.

But now the President's crusade against sexy movies has even caught up with Giddens. Police raided one of his theatres after a midnight showing of a Danish film about lesbianism the other night, seized the movie and arrested the manager and projectionist.

The pair were charged with violating the city's obscenity ordinance. "Acts of lesbianism were featured and every part of the female anatomy was shown quite explicitly," snorted an indignant Judge Desmond Toler, who signed the warrant for the movie's seizure.

Judge Toler's specialty is traffic cases, and it is fair to question his expertise in matters of pornography and taste, particularly since most Mobile theatergoers didn't find the movie offensive.

The Voice of America, meanwhile, has faithfully reported President Nixon's pious pronouncements on pornography. It will be interesting to see whether the VOA will carry the story about its director's movie chain getting into hot water with the Alabama authorities. Commented Giddens when told of the incident: "Oh, no!"

Police and Panthers

The renewed wave of police slaying has been traced, in part, to a militant wing of the Black Panthers.

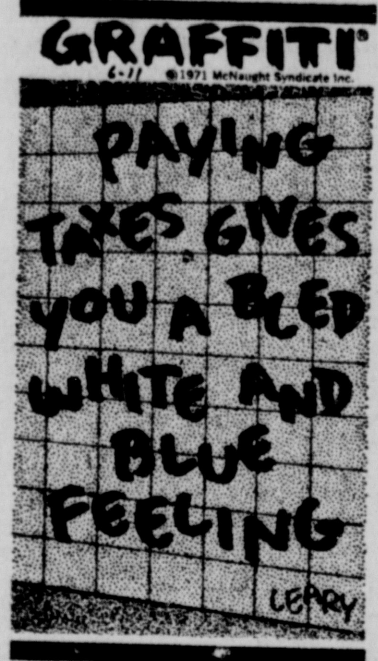

This faction, led by Eldridge Cleaver, is promoting guerrilla warfare against the police. A rival faction, led by Huey Newton, is opposed to violence against police.

Most white radical groups, according to police intelligence, are also backing away from violence.

The militant Black Panthers, meanwhile, are reported to be gunning for police. More than 50 lawmen have been murdered since the first of the year, 30 in February and March alone.

The militants seek to produce hostility between the people and the police, according to intelligence reports. This would bring the kind of chaos to America that the revolutionaries could exploit.

The non-violent factions, both black and white, seek the same ends. But they believe the police killings will only solidify public support for the police.

Where Away After Vietnam?

Great Awakening for U.S.

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The day it becomes clear we are largely out of Vietnam will be the dawning of a new age of self-discovery for Americans.

Vietnam has been the great alibi. For years now, it has been argued by diverse groups in different ways that, so long as we were there, we would have neither the will nor the capacity to fix up our crumbling cities, get people out of poverty, improve health care, attend to the racial struggle.

Well, on Peace Day Plus One we'll begin to find out just how authentic that alibi has been. Some recent travelers abroad tell me that influential Europeans think Americans today are, on the whole, a pretty unstable people. You can't translate that into proud attitudes on the part of these Europeans. But they believe the war has destroyed our balance and perspective.

If they are wrong, if we still are stable, we really won't start to learn for sure until we're out. A key thing to watch will be whether we quickly grab for new alibis in the event our present chaos and confusion continue.

Money will be a great focus. For two or three years we've been getting warnings very soundly based, that there will be no whopping peace dividend after Vietnam. Yet the country is full of disbelievers on this score. Those who have disbelieved, or have postponed looking at the evidence, may undergo a great awakening after Peace Day.

Disillusionment is said to be deep today. What new depths will it plumb when the harsh money realities sink home with fresh force? What frustrations will follow that "discovery" and what attitudes and actions will they spawn?

From President Nixon to

Sen. George McGovern, it is taken for granted that "there will be no more Vietnams." The feeling everywhere is that, after six years or more in Southeast Asia, the American people just won't lend any kind of support to limited wars.

Still, there obviously is no guarantee that in the decades immediately ahead the world is suddenly going to become placid. Or that the Soviet Union, Red China and perhaps some others are really going to renounce their pushy ways.

How would we react to a new crisis over Berlin or Cuba? Maybe there isn't going to be any. But in this wobbly world one would be silly to bank on it.

Those long gray vessels the Russians have in the Mediterranean aren't fishing trawlers. Lately Moscow has been sending "cargo ships" to, of all places, Spanish ports. But, those detecting devices they've got on the masts are not designed to sniff out markets. They're monitoring our bases in Spain.

And what the Soviets are doing with and for the Egyptians hardly come under the head of peace-mongering.

The British author C.P. Snow is only one among many who have said in recent times that a great nation must do, and must believe it can do, many big things at one time.

Actually, throughout our Vietnam era we have done much more than the one-thing-at-a-time boys would have us believe. Though we don't keep up with the problem, we have lifted millions out of poverty. We have provided vastly better health care (with more still needed), widened education, begun to attack pollution, gone to the moon, kept a strong force in Europe, eased some parts of racial strife.

The question for peace day: Can we find the resolves for larger tasks and new crises after hearing for six years that Vietnam destroyed our ability to do anything else?

Trying to Locate Dog That Nipped Student

LAKE KATRINE
Efforts were continued today by the faculty at the Lake Katrine School and area police and residents to try and locate a dog that "nipped" the leg of a first grade seven-year-old boy on the school property Wednesday afternoon.

Arthur J. Hartigan, head teacher, said the dog was not vicious and its teeth merely punctured the skin of the boy's leg. "We are all anxious to find this dog to have it placed under observation and check to see whether it has had its shots," Hartigan said. "If the dog is found and we find out that it parents, the family physician brindle color with black spots and it appeared to be part boxer 12 days to make sure he suffers no ill effects from the incident."

Anyone having any information about the dog is asked to call 382-3242 or 339-3364.

Pledges Housing Enforcement

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon pledged today the government will vigorously enforce laws against racial discrimination in housing but he said it will not force affluent suburbs to accept housing projects intended for the poor. "A municipality that does not want federally assisted housing should not have it imposed from Washington by bureaucratic fiat," Nixon said in a 15-page review of his administration's housing policy.

The statement, more than a year in preparation, drew a clear distinction between racial and economic discrimination. "By equal housing opportunity, I mean the achievement of a condition in which individuals of similar income levels... have a like range of housing choices available to them regardless of race, color, religion or national origin," Nixon said.

The statement, which emphasized the requirements of existing laws, including the 1968 Fair Housing Act, was a victory for Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

Housing Secretary George Romney had suggested that the government take greater steps to help the poor obtain housing in neighborhoods which are now too costly.

Drafts of the statement were prepared separately in the Justice Department and the Housing and Urban Development Department.

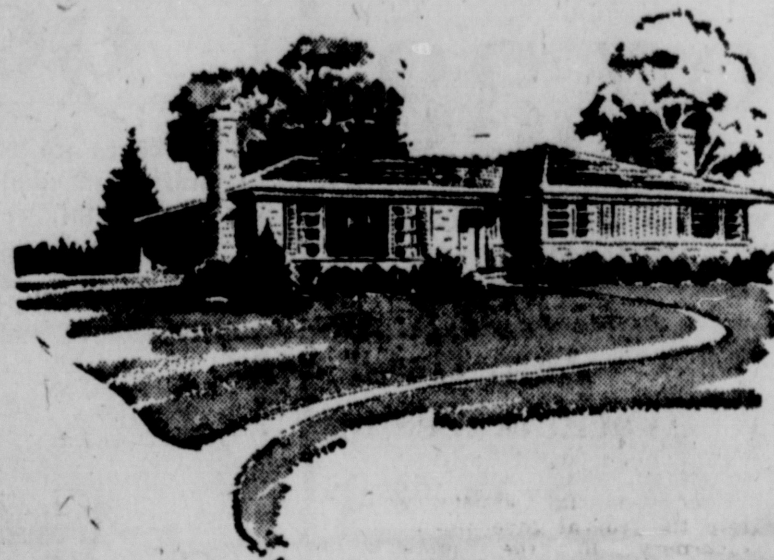

Nixon declared: "We will not seek to impose economic integration upon an existing local jurisdiction; at the same time, we will not countenance any use of economic measures as a subterfuge for racial discrimination."

The President traced housing discrimination back to 1917 when the Supreme Court outlawed local ordinances which banned blacks and other minority groups from residential blocks where they did not already constitute a majority. As recently as Thursday, the Civil Rights Commission was critical of a new federal home ownership program on the ground that it had been used to perpetuate segregation.

Check Charge

A 21-year-old Dutchess County youth was arrested Thursday by Kingston Police on a warrant charging him with using a fraudulent check at the Albany Avenue Grand Union store. Charles Mann of Lakeview Hotel, Wappingers Falls, was scheduled to appear before City Judge Hubert A. Richter. Police said the check was for $10.

Alice Jane Wolslegel Weds T. H. Decker

St. Catherine Laboure Church in Lake Katrine was the setting for the wedding of Miss Alice Jane Wolslegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert G. Wolslegel of Brookside Court, Lake Katrine, and Thomas Howard Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Decker of 16 Walling Avenue, Oneonta, on Sunday, June 6.

The Rev. Anthony Chiaramonte of Oneonta officiated at the double ring ceremony and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James J. McNally, pastor of St. Catherine Laboure Church, was celebrant of the Nuptial Mass. James Sweeney, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white and ice blue daisies decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheath empire gown of peau de soie fashioned with a wide band of venise lace inset around the skirt. The venise lace formed a Peter Pan collar encircling the edge of the long tapered sleeves, and accented her cathedral train. She wore a tulle cap covered with white and ice blue daisies with a tiered illusion veil and carried a medley cascade of white and ice blue daisies.

Ellen Kay Wolslegel, sister of the bride, Lake Katrine, was honor attendant in a full pant gown of brown and white polka dotted jersey with a bodice of white satin-faced organza styled with a roll collar and full gathered sleeves. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies with yellow velvet ribbon.

Seth Ceely of Oneonta was best man. Ushers were Thomas Doody of Albany and Martin Levi of Far Rockaway.

A reception for 85 guests was held at the home of the bride.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a navy blue and white knit dress and vest ensemble with matching accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

The bride, a 1967 graduate of St. Ursula's Academy and a 1971 cum laude graduate of Albany State University where she received a BS degree in Psychology with a minor in Speech Pathology and Audiology, plans to attend graduate school part time in the fall.

Her husband, a 1966 alumnus of Oneonta High School, is a 1971 graduate of Albany State University where he was awarded a BA degree in Personnel with a minor in Management and Sociology. He is manager of Barnsider Restaurant in Albany.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker will reside at the Leisureville Apartments of Colonie.

Ganan - Budny Nuptials Announced Recently

St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Linda Ann Ganan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ganan of 109 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, and Robert John Budny, 2 Pearl Street, Kingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Budny of Brooklyn, on Saturday, June 5.

The Rev. Alfred Pizzuto officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, accompanied Richard Scherer who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of yellow gladioli and white chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a empire styled gown fashioned with a lace Victorian bodice. The skirt was styled with two tiers of lace over organza with appliques of lace. The bishop sleeves were of matching lace and her detachable train featured a full scalloped lace border. She wore a crown of aurora crystals attached to a two tiered silk illusion veil and carried a cascade of white roses and baby's breath.

Margaret Corkery, sister of the bride, 109 Clinton Avenue, Kingston, was matron of honor in culottes of coral chiffon styled with narrow ruffles around the high neckline and wide cuffs of semi-bishop sleeves. Her skirt was a print of varied shades of coral flowers. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a fireside basket of varied colored daisies and baby's breath.

Attendants were Natalie Budny, sister of the bridegroom, Brooklyn; Margaret Reilly, Kingston; Sharon Fogler, Woodstock; Chris Mayone, Kingston. Their yellow gowns and picture hats were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and they carried fireside baskets of various colored daisies and baby's breath.

Carolyn Farina, niece of the bride, Bellmore, served as junior bridesmaid in a coral gown identical in styling to Ronald Budny, brother of the bridegroom, North Carolina, was best man. Ushers were George Lucente, Saugerties; Thomas Benicase, Nicholas Papilio and Robert Polcano, all of Kingston. Junior Usher was Keith Landerway, nephew of the bride, Kingston. Robert Farina, nephew of the bride, Bellmore, was ringbearer.

A reception for 125 guests was held at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected a navy dress with red and white trim, white accessories and a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The bride, a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School, is employed by Burns-LeFever Agency, Inc., Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Erasmus High School in Brooklyn and State University of New York at Cobleskill, served two years in the U.S. Army including a tour of duty in Vietnam, and is employed by Grand Union in New Paltz. Mr. and Mrs. Budny will reside in Kingston until September when he will attend University of New Haven, Conn.

opinions on a new proposal that would require the listing of all ingredients on the labels of all foods, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist. The new proposals by the Food and Drug Administration would make mandatory the listing of ingredients by order of predominance in the so-called standardized foods. A standardized food is one in which the recipe is set under Food and Drug Administration regulations, but the label need not specify all ingredients. For non-standardized foods, ingredient listing by order of predominance is now required. The new proposal would extend this regulation to the standardized foods.

Consumers have 60 days from May 12, when the new proposal was set forth in the

Current Market Report

Dairy products — Large supplies of fluid milk are flowing to market, as this is the flush season of production. The basic support price paid to farmers for milk is expected to be increased by the Federal government later this year. This will lead to higher prices for fluid milk and for many milk products. So take advantage of the large supply now. Production of cottage cheese, American cheese, ice cream, and many other dairy items will increase this year.

Maple syrup — It was a bad season for maple syrup production with weather the chief culprit. New York, the largest producing state, turned out 11 per cent less syrup than last year. Output of syrup in Vermont and the rest of New England was also less than last year and two years ago. Exceptionally cold weather followed by temperatures that were too warm cut the flow of syrup this spring. Other sections of the country also had poor crops.

Fruits and vegetables — Spring came a little late this year for vegetable growers. Several early green vegetables. Peach production coming to market or are around in reduced quantities. And the weather has cut production forecasts for a number of fruits and vegetables. Peach production in the nine southern states that constitute the early crop is off by eight per cent from last year's reduced crop and nearly 25 per cent less than two years ago. The spring melon crop is down 8 per cent from 1970. Heavy volume of watermelons is starting, but marketings will be off by five per cent. Production of all spring vegetables is down by five per cent from 1970, with the early potato crop off by 12 per cent. Prices will undoubtedly be somewhat higher than anticipated.

She's Sensible Woman Not Sensuous One!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971, by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is not a letter seeking advice, it is a statement of horror at the vulnerability of the female species. After reading a best seller which instructs women on how to be "sensuous," I have concluded that I am certainly not sensuous, nor do I want to be!

If a man has to take a woman for a "trial run" as if she were an automobile, I'll probably be called back to the factory due to a leaky fuel pump. And according to the author's more descriptive passages, I'd say she is well on her way to her 50th six-thousand-mile check-up. I hope her muffler falls off!

It gives me a pain in the pocketbook to realize that I spent $1.25 for that book. Sign me.

SENSIBLE, NOT SENSUOUS
DEAR SENSIBLE: You're beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, we agreed that we would have no children. We were both in our early twenties at the time. He came from a poor family and struggled thru college and medical school on scholarships. I came from a broken home and wanted to be certain our marriage would work before bringing children into the world.

My husband is now a physician and I am teaching, and we could easily support a family, but my husband doesn't want children. He feels that they would tie us down.

He is a devoted husband and I'm sure he'd make a fine father. We are good friends as well as lovers and enjoy traveling and a sense of freedom only childless couples know.

When I mention children, he says he is happy without them. I have considered getting pregnant and then facing the issue. Should I honor his wishes and my promise or become pregnant and hope that he will be as happy as I, once the baby comes? I am 31 and time is running out.

SOMETHING MISSING
DEAR SOMETHING: Don't trick him into fatherhood. He may never forgive you — or the child. If you can't persuade him that children would enrich your lives, better to content yourself with "something missing" than to betray him with "something added."

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you about my sister. She is 13 years old and she hasn't had one date yet. She's not beautiful, but she's not a mess either. She's tried the most exotic perfumes and she dresses in the latest styles, but it hasn't helped her. I am thinking of asking some of the boys at school to please date my sister to get her started to lift her spirits. I would even be glad to give the guy five bucks.

What do you think of this approach?

HER 15-YEAR OLD BROTHER

DEAR BROTHER: A 13-year-old girl who hasn't had one date yet is hardly an "old maid." Don't offer to pay a guy to date your sister or he'll wonder what's wrong with her. If she hasn't had a date by the time she's 16, you might arrange a "blind date" for her. But don't ask anyone who knows her to take her out at 13. (It's unlucky!)

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LUCKY" IN OMAHA: Thanks for letting me know that all is well. Sometimes a good scare can do more for a girl than 10 lectures.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:25 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Doing the Right Thing

DEAR MRS. POST: Lately, when friends or business associates have entertained us at a restaurant, my husband always offers, and often insists, on taking care of the tip. He claims that it is a new form of etiquette. I think it is embarrassing and in bad taste. The bill for the drinks is a different matter, but not the tip, as far as I am concerned.

MRS. K. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: I have never heard of this new form of etiquette. A host pays all the expenses, and it would surely embarrass him if a guest insisted on paying a certain part. If your husband is concerned about his host's expense, let him repay by returning the invitation and picking up the entire tab himself.

I agree that if several rounds of drinks are ordered, a guest may ask the waiter to give him the check for one of them.

Whether you are a teenager or a parent with young people in the family, you will find the suggestions in my booklet "As Others See You — Etiquette Tips for Teenagers" helpful and useful. To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins, to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

WELCOME WAGON OFFICERS — Steering activities for Welcome Wagon Club, a service club with more than 550 volunteer hours given to area organizations, will be (l-r) Mrs. Janet Parker, treasurer; Mrs. Cathy Benware, secretary; Mrs. Erna Brock, president; and Mrs. Mary Lou Thompson, second vice president. Members of Welcome Wagon Club have assisted with projects at the Children's Rehabilitation Center, Children's Home, Kingston Children's Library, Amblyopia Screening, Hadler's Nursing Home and Ulster County Infirmary Annex. The club has also donated volunteer hours to Well Baby and Immunization Clinics, Welfare families, Teen Challenge, Kingston Drug Council and fund raising. Out of 40 members participating in these service projects, 11 have served more than 20 hours. They include the club president, who has a record of 60 hours, Mrs. Jinx Bernstein, Mrs. Beth Deaton, Mrs. Jane Devine, Mrs. Dorothy Kurzawa, Mrs. Jane Lindberg, Mrs. Minla Massie, Mrs. Noddy Shotten, Mrs. Mary Lou Thompson, Mrs. Laura Veatch and Mrs. Barbara Weston. 'Growth Games' For Happier Family Says Local Author

Five-year-old Kate, in a crabby mood, was refusing to go to the store with her mother. "You be Mother," said her mother, "and I'll be Kate."

Kate fell in with the turnabout. "Come put on your coat, Kate," she said. "No no no!" screamed her mother, playing Kate. "I want to stay home and watch TV," Kate, still playing Mother, replied. "If we don't go now we won't have any food for dinner. You know I can't leave you home alone."

The foregoing is a "growth game," an activity to awaken your emotions and senses. By playing "Role Switching," Kate saw the problem through her mother's eyes. At the same time, her mother experienced what it's like to be dragged away from something you want to do. Kate acted more reasonably, and Mother resolved to schedule her shopping better.

Growth games are widely used in sensitivity training (also called the "encounter movement") and the "human potential movement." They are major offerings at growth centers like the Esalen Institute in California and the Aureon Institute in New York. Many growth games are aimed at improving relations between parents and children, and husbands and wives.

For families wanting to gain the benefits of growth games in their own home, medical writer Howard R. Lewis, a resident of Woodstock for the past five years and a practitioner in this movement, and psychologist Dr. Harold S. Streifeld, director of Aureon, have selected some 200 experiments they've found "most likely to help you have a happier family, sharpen your senses, break through emotional blocks, enliven your body."

Their new book, "GROWTH GAMES: How to Tune In Yourself, Your Family, Your Friends," (Harcourt Brace Jovanovich) gives instructions for the games, with the theories behind them and anecdotes about what happens to people who play them. Jane Howard of Life magazine, author of "Please Touch," calls it a "valuable guide and exhaustive compendium of the movement's methods."

Leadership Training Session For New York State LPN's

TIME OUT from conference sessions at the June 6-7 convention of Licensed Practical Nurses in New York State. The LPN's reviewed all aspects of appropriate functions of the LPN in nursing service. The convention was held at Mohonk Mountain House in New Paltz. (Freeman photo by Haines).

The New York State convention of Licensed Practical Nurses was held beginning Sunday, June 6 at Mohonk Mt. House in New Paltz with approximately 400 in attendance.

In addition to reviewing trends in the nursing profession, applicable techniques, the Licensed Practical Nurses and students nurses heard such speakers as Dr. Kenneth A. Chandler, professor of Vassar College; Dr. Vincent Beltrani, who spoke about the Methodone program; and Mrs. Vera Herwig, president of the National Federation of Licensed Practical Nurses. Serving as official hostess was Beatrice Manookian, president of the Ulster County Division of LPN.

The Association of Licensed Practical Nurses of New York has initiated legislation and supported proposals that have resulted in the passing of the Nurse Practice Act of 1948 which sets forth the requirements for licensure of practical nurses and makes it mandatory for LPN's to be licensed; the formation of the Placement Bureau for LPN's; the adoption of the standardization of white uniforms for all LPN's; the placement of four LPN's on the State Board of Nurse Examiners; and establishment of the Nurses' Registry.

The Association has provided and supported countless numbers of refresher courses to improve the services of the LPN. It has provided, for its members low cost insurance programs, a consultation service, information regarding legislation affecting LPN's, plus many other services.

Also in attendance for the convention was Mrs. Sallie Draney, Poughkeepsie, who is education coordinator for Licensed Practical Nurses of New York, Inc.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

I'm a brand new bride and am in the midst of writing "thank you" notes. But before I write another note, I want to share an idea with you and your readers.

I just wanted to tell you about one of the most cherished gifts that my husband and I received for our wedding.

It was a beautiful family Bible. We were both so thrilled and so touched. Especially when we thumbed through it (it's beautifully illustrated) and came to the place where records are kept, such as marriages, births, deaths, etc.

I think it was then that we really realized and felt the full impact of what our marriage really meant—continuity!

We made a vow then and there that this was to be the most used gift of all. It's so wonderful to think about passing down that beautiful Bible (which means so much to us and in the years to come will mean more and more) from generation to generation.

I'd just like to suggest that if you want to give a gift that surpasses all others and will always be held most dear—consider the perfect gift of love—a family Bible. What better tribute to the beginning of a new family.

New Bride

... beautifully said, thank you! Bless you, your new husband and your marriage.

Love,
Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

My dad says, that the best way to serve life is NEVER, NEVER, NEVER!

Dear Heloise:

May a gentleman join in? I just learned a new way to use up leftover mashed potatoes (the boxed type, of course).

I took the cold potatoes and added some milk. To this I added a dash of horseradish, some table mustard and a few fried becon chips and whipped it up.

I then spread a layer in the bottom of a greased casserole and grated some cheese over it. Added the rest of the mashed taters over that and topped with more grated cheese.

Then baked it in the oven WITH a piece of foil over it until the taters were hot.

All that was left to do was remove the foil and let the cheese brown a bit and you have a dish fit for a king.

Mister Les

Well, well, well
And I do declare!

I just used up my leftover taters with your recipe. How can we ever thank you enough. Kind sir? And I never heard of putting horseradish or mustard in mashed taters.

You really gave it a bit of zing!

Think of all the bachelors and wives who will think of you from now on. I highly recommend this recipe to all you good folks.

Garden Club Meets In Woodstock; Set Date for Bazaar

Standard flower show procedure was the major item of interest at the June 2 meeting of Woodstock Garden Club held at Overlook Methodist Church hall. Panel members, Mrs. Lamont Marvin, Mrs. Clyde Deavers, Mrs. Otto E. Marquardt, Mrs. Ernest Lindroth, and Mrs. Henry Winzenried, answered questions and gave information concerning the show.

Members voted to change the date of the annual bazaar from July 17 to September 4.

Reports were submitted by Mrs. Deavers, president; Mrs. Lindroth, recording secretary; Mrs. Vincent Milora, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Marquardt, treasurer.

Membership chairman, Mrs. Craig R. Vosburgh, introduced two new members, Mrs. John E. Koerner and Mrs. Henry Middelndorf, who were presented with corsages of induction. Mrs. Michael F. Edwards who became a member in absentia at the April meeting also received a corsage.

Social chairman, Mrs. Gilbert Schneider, introduced the hostesses for the day, Mrs. James R. Myers and Mrs. Kate Musof.

Appreciation was extended to Gwen Summers for a recent fund-raising project.

Audition Date Is Scheduled For 'Miss Black America'

The first auditioning for the Miss Black America of New York and New Jersey will take place June 20 at the Royal Manhattan Hotel in New York City.

Girls between the ages of 18 and 25, single, high school graduate, attending school or a resident of their state are eligible for the contest. Anyone who wishes to audition June 20 should write to: Miss Black America, Royal Manhattan Hotel, attention Miss Harris.

The New York State Pageant will take place August 1 at the same hotel in New York and the state pageant for New Jersey will be August 8 in Symphony Hall in Newark. Both events are preliminaries to the Miss Black American Beauty Pageant taking place August 27 in Madison Square Garden.

This is the third annual Miss Black America contest. Miss Irene Small, Miss Black New York 1970-71 will give her title to the winner who will compete against girls from all over the country in the national contest. Miss Small was among the 10 runners-up at the Garden last year and is now attending Columbia University.

G. O. Smith, the first Miss Black New York was crowned the second Miss Black America 1969-70. Miss Smith was the first beauty pageant winner to entertain troops in Vietnam.

Miss Black America 1970-71 is Stephanie Clark of Washington, D.C. Her talent is singing. She just recently returned from Vietnam and Thailand entertaining both black and white troops. Miss Clark and Miss Smith both received $3,000 career awards

UCCC Faculty Picks Dietz as Leader

Theodore E. Dietz, Associate Professor of Police Science, was elected president of the Ulster County Community College Faculty Association at its recent final meeting of the academic year. Professor Dietz, a retired New York City Police lieutenant, has been a member of the teaching faculty for two years, and is coordinator of the college's Police Science and Correction Administration programs. In commenting on the college, Professor Dietz said that there were still many unresolved issues at Ulster County Community College. "It is our wish," he said "to move ahead on all fronts in a positive, productive, and responsible manner."

Mountain View Rates Going Up Next Week

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Some bus passengers in the mid-Hudson Valley will be paying a little more for their rides beginning next Wednesday. The state Department of Transportation approved a new, mileage - rated fare schedule Thursday for the Mountain View Coach Line. The new zone schedule will apply to all but one Mountain View route. Adult one-way fares will be based on a rate of five cents a mile for distances of 15 miles or more, six cents a mile for 10- to 15-mile trips and seven cents a mile for rides of less than 10 miles. Fares for service on the Catskill - Middleburg resort route will be somewhat higher, the Transportation Department said.

Nursing Home Administrators Are Licensed

WHITE PLAINS A total of 169 persons in the White Plains Region of the State Health Department have been permanently licensed as nursing home administrators as the result of examinations conducted last fall. Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, state health commissioner, announced today. Ulster County licensees are Evelyn F. Blue and Norton E. Blue, both of 1 Jansen Road, New Paltz; Edna M. Scott, and Nicholas T. Scott, 116 Main Street, Kingston, and James J. Scuderi of 105 Pearl Street, Kingston. Northern Dutchess licensee is Michael C. Mazzarella of Astor Drive, Rhinebeck.

Singer Seized
NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Rock singer David Crosby was arrested on narcotics charges Thursday when a patrolman investigating a suspicious odor found a pound of marijuana bubbling to the surface around the singer's yacht. Crosby, 28, leader of the group Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young, was listed as the owner of the 60-foot vessel Mayan moored at the Lido Shipyard. Five other persons aboard the craft were booked on possession charges.

Confusion Continues at Ulster Mental Health Clinic

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE
The confusion surrounding the Southern Ulster Mental Health Clinic may be resolved in the court, but for the present it continues unabated. The clinic now has two boards of directors; each board claims to be the only duly constituted one.

The clinic found itself with two boards after its annual meeting May 27. Eugene Glusker, former mayor of Ellenville, was the chairman of the board of directors (and according to him, still is) and after calling the meeting to order, he did not recognize a quorum which under the clinic's by-laws would be 15 paid-up members. Since there was no quorum, Glusker said, he entertained a motion to adjourn, and did so. Glusker maintains that anything which happened after he adjourned the meeting was not legal and proper.

Whether or not it was legal and proper (and this may be a matter for the courts, Glusker's board has pledged court action to remain in power), the meeting continued. Mrs. Audrey Greene, the clinic's treasurer, apparently chaired the meeting and mustered a quorum. This quorum elected a whole new slate of directors. None of Glusker's board was reelected.

According to Mrs. Greene, a large part of Glusker's board was not even eligible for reelection. She told The Freeman

Walter Sperling, Kenneth Mitchell, Louis Resnick, Father John Budwig and Ernest Miller had not paid their $10 dues by the April 27 deadline, and were not eligible to either vote or hold office.

Glusker takes issue with Mrs. Greene's method of defining "paid up member," particularly in the case of Father Budwig, who Glusker said has pledged one-third of his salary to the clinic, and ought to be considered paid up whether his $10 are in or not.

The major question still unanswered is why the second board was elected. No one cares to say, Glusker says he doesn't know why the second board was elected. Mrs. Greene told The Freeman it was elected "because an annual meeting was held, and a board of directors had to be elected," but gave no specific reason why the members of the old board still eligible in her judgment to hold office were excluded from the new board.

There is some speculation that the election was held out of pique. It is alleged that Mrs. Greene was asked to resign her position as treasurer as a concession to the County Board of Mental Health, which was to provide a healthy share of the funding for the clinic. Mrs. Greene's outspoken criticism of the county board has not endeared her to them.

Glusker pointed out that despite all charges and counter charges hurled about during the current brouhaha, no one has suggested that the personnel of the clinic were doing less than a fully efficient job.

According to the clinic's director, Dr. Bernard Kalina, the current factional fight hasn't affected the personnel of the clinic, and "won't a bit." He told The Freeman, "Everything is running smoothly at the clinic," and he expected things to continue that way.

It has been rumored funding from the county for the clinic might be affected by the change in personnel on the board. The change is personnel referred to is Mrs. Greene, Dr. Emeline P. Hayward, county mental health director, told The Freeman this wasn't so. She said she did not see now it could affect the funding, observing, "We awarded them the funds on the basis of what they were doing, not who they were."

There is one funding hangup, but it has nothing to do with the current unpleasantness. Wawarsing Town Supervisor Frank Harkin told The Freeman that the State Department of Audit and Control had informed him that the town could not give the $4,000 budgeted to the clinic. The funds were budgeted for transportation of town residents to Kingston for mental health care. Harkin said the budget was made up before the clinic was a reality, and it was decided to give the funds to the clinic instead. Audit and Control has said he can't do that; Harkin said he is seeking a second opinion in the agency. Harkin said "as chief fiscal officer of the town, I cannot release the funds until it is all legally correct."

Ellenville Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg told The Freeman he was not present at the time of the voting for the new board, and it was only as he dropped in at the end of the meeting that he was informed of his new position as a member of the board of directors. He said there were "wonderful people" on the old board, and said it was "a pity that something like this has to be battled out." He said he intended to make a personal effort to get both sides together to resolve their differences, and said, "Right now we have 15 people on each side fighting each other. Think what we could do with 30 people working together."

Rosendale Water Solution Going to Referendum

By JON POWERS

ROSENDALE
Rosendale Village voters next month will decide the fate of the latest proposed solution to their long-standing water crisis.

After a stormy public hearing this week, the Village Board this week accepted an engineer's report recommending that the village purchase its water from New York City.

The matter will be decided by public referendum on July 20. If approved, the village will embark upon an expensive and costly program many say will cure Rosendale's water problems once and for all.

Plans to tie into the New York City-Catskill Water Aqueduct have been championed by the current village administration for some time. But the plans have been severely criticized by a number of residents as well as leading Democratic Party officials.

The engineer's report, which was presented to the public this week and approved later by the Village Board, was drawn up by the firm of Ronald H. Laberge, Consulting Civil Engineers and Municipal Planners from Albany.

The report estimates that the project will cost the village $1,149,000, with costs projected to 1972. "If construction were initiated by 1973, it is estimated that the costs would be increased by approximately 10-15 per cent."

It was pointed out, however, that the village is eligible for Federal assistance (either through the Farmers Home Administration or the Department of Housing and Urban Development) of up to 50 per cent of the total construction costs. Receipt of full Federal aid will reduce the village's share of the project to $598,000.

The cost for the average village homeowner (if the plan receives maximum Federal assistance) will come to $149 for the first year, $96 for an average year and $74 after the 40th year. All three figures would be significantly higher if Federal assistance were unavailable.

In addition to purchasing water from New York City, the recommended plan calls for the maintenance of the Still Pond water supply for emergency purposes and improving the water distribution system.

An alternate plan, not recommended by the engineers, called for "The continuation of all existing sources of supply, the development of additional small supplemental supplies and the improvement of the water distribution system."

It was recommended that the village purchase its water from New York City because, "a superior water quality would be obtained; continuous water services would be assured; water system operation would be simplified and less costly; construction cost is not significantly higher . . ."

The alternate plan, "although technically feasible," was not recommended because, "water quality is variable; treatment facilities would be prohibitively costly in terms of both capital cost and operation expense; the total system would be burdensome in terms of maintenance and operation, effort and expense; there is no assurance that sufficient supplemental ground water supplies will be located . . ."

Cost to the village to accept the alternate plan, and not tie into the New York City Water Aqueduct, is estimated to be $1,111,000, or about $40,000 less than the adopted plan.

The costs estimated for tying into the Aqueduct do not include the $120-$140 fee charged by New York City for purchasing each million gallons of water.

Water consumption in Rosendale averaged 263,000 gallons per day in 1970 and water consumption for the year 2020 will be an estimated 440,000 gallons per day.

There were a number of reasons in the engineer's report substantiating its recommendations. Most noteworthy was the statement: "In general the water supply, storage and distribution system of the village is in poor condition, requiring major improvement and rehabilitation merely to meet current water demands."

It was also noted that "Water consumption is excessive in terms of the population (of the village) served and is due to leakage from the distribution system, faulty plumbing fixtures and uncontrolled use."

If the Aqueduct tie-in is approved, "proposed facilities would embrace a metering and chlorination station at the Aqueduct connection in High Falls, an eight-inch transmission main from the Aqueduct to a 500,000 gallon steel storage reservoir to be constructed on the hill behind Main Street; various improvements throughout the distribution system to improve quality of service and to afford adequate fire protection."

Included in the engineer's report was a 21-point program towards final completion of the project. The next step for the Village Board, accordingly, is to obtain approval of the preliminary plan and report from the New York State Department of Health and HUD. It also calls for a public meeting before the referendum date.

Green Light in Rhinebeck To Build 'Home for the Aging'

RHINEBECK
A green light was tentatively given proceeding on plans to construct a $3.75 million building in Rhinebeck this week to replace the Baptist Home of Brooklyn.

In conversation with The Freeman, Charles Vonderheide, Rhinebeck member of the Board of Managers for the Home, said that the correct appellation to properly describe the facility would be "home for the aging," not "home for the aged."

The difference was pointed out as being that the Home seeks to attract younger persons in their 60s, and has for years, rather than waiting until they are unable to care for themselves in extreme old age.

The philosophy of the Home was expressed in his pointing out that members residing there are called "the family," and the lack of room to expand. The building itself, according to preliminary architectural plans, will consist of nine connected buildings in three main fan-shaped rows with a central triangular-shaped administrative office and medical clinic. The Development Committee

It will be located somewhere on the 74-acre former Brookmeade Estate in Rhinebeck, on Route 308. The site and the planning of the building will give much room for expansion at some future time.

The Brookmeade property was purchased about a year ago by the Baptist corporation for $125,000.

As the name implies, the change in location and to the Brooklyn location served primarily New York City and Long Island Baptist churches, and the churches have in turn supported the Home. A rapid deterioration of the neighborhood character and cross section of residents and also to provide some services and funds.

The Home is a fairly large corporation, with a 1970 budget well in excess of $400,000. Its impact on Rhinebeck, and the surrounding community may be felt in part on the provision of jobs on several levels, although most of the professional staff will of necessity move to this area. There are approximately 90 residents in the Home, and the most modern facilities are planned for the Rhinebeck facility.

The Baptist Home will thus join the Catholic-run Ferneliff Home on River Road, which is well underway in construction, in the Town of Rhinebeck's contribution of facilities for the "aging."

Girls State

Ulster County Girls State delegates were feted at a dinner Thursday night at Skytop Restaurant. This year's sessions will be held June 27 through July 3 at the State University of New York at Albany. Girls sponsored by county American Legion Auxiliary Units are (seated L-R) Judy Hevesi, Alvera Terwilliger, Patti Adels and Jacqueline Dietrich; (standing) Catherine Brito, Susan Kin-sch, Lynn Pauli and Bonnie Ludlow. At Girl's State high school juniors selected for outstanding scholastic and leadership qualities will participate in a study of government in the mythical 51st state. Through practical applications of governmental processes they gain a greater understanding of the importance of good citizenship. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

West Point Jewish Chaplain Critical of Rogers' Mission

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — The Jewish chaplain at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point Thursday night criticized Secretary of State William Rogers' recent diplomatic mission to the Middle East. He called Rogers "insensitive" to the concerns of the Israelis.

Rabbi Abraham Soltes made his comments before the opening session of the four-day convention here of B'nai Zion, an American Zionist fraternal organization.

"Arab sensibilities were more important than Israel's sensibilities," Soltes complained. "He personally visited Mrs.

Nassar . . . and he showed concepts and niceties of diplomatic courtesy towards Jordan and Egypt," said Soltes, who has been a West Point chaplain for eight years.

"In Israel, on the other hand," he continued, "He made it equally obvious that he was deliberately insensitive to the concerns of the Israelis."

The rabbi pointed out that Rogers refused to visit the Golan Heights or Sharm-el-Sheik, "where he might have gained a personal insight about the justified sensitivity of Israel concerning its safety and defense."

The Golan Heights and Sharm-el-Sheik are former Arab territories occupied by the Israelis during the 1967 Mid-East war.

Pickoff Goes Haywire

Yanks Edge Angels

ANAHEIM (UPI) — Yankee catcher Thurman Munson scored the deciding run Thursday night when his opposite number John Stephenson threw wildly trying to pick him off third and New York beat the California Angels 3-2.

The Yankees, winning the series two games to one, pushed across their first run in the first inning off starter and loser Tom Murphy, now 3-8, on singles by Jerry Kenney and Jim Lyle plus an infield out by Bobby Murcer.

The Angels produced a tying run in the bottom of the first on back-to-back doubles by Jim Spencer and Jim Fregosi. Fregosi got another double in the eighth inning and had two of the five hits off Stan Bahnsen. Bahnsen went the distance to post a career record of nine victories and but one loss against the Angels. His record for the season is 5-6.

The Yanks took a 2-1 lead in the second on a walk to Frank Baker, one of five given up by Murphy, a sacrifice by Bahnsen and the second single by Kenney.

In the sixth Murphy walked Munson with one out and then threw wild trying to pick him off first, allowing him to get to second. He took third on an infield out. At that point Baker was walked intentionally and Stephenson threw the ball into left field when he tried to pick Munson off third. On the same play, Baker stole second and tried to score but was thrown out on a relay from left field.

The Angels got their second run in the seventh. It was unearned when leadoff man

Ken McMullen was safe on a throwing error by shortstop Baker. Roger Repoz forced McMullen at second and scored later on Ken Berry's single to right.

Kirby KO's Mets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clay Kirby pitched a four-hitter and Nate Colbert hit his 13th home run to break a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning Thursday as the San Diego Padres defeated the New York Mets, 4-2, to salvage the final game of a three-game series.

Kirby, who pitched eight hitless innings against the Mets before being lifted for a pinchhitter in a game last season, handcuffed New York on two hits before pinchhitter Ken Singleton and Don Hahn delivered two-out singles in the eighth inning.

Kirby then retired Ken Boswell on a liner to left field to quell the final Met threat.

Kirby struck out 13, setting a club record, and didn't walk a batter in beating the Mets for the second time this season. Ed Kranepool's two-run homer in the first inning accounted for the only Met runs.

Colbert, who had seven hits and two homers in the series, drove a Nolan Ryan pitch into the first deck in left field following Dave Campbell's single in the fifth. Two pitches earlier, Colbert had hit a ball into the second deck but it curved foul.

Colbert who stretched his hitting streak to eight games, was credited with the Padres' first hit in the second inning when shortstop Tim Foli lost his pop fly in the sun. He later scored on Ivan Murrell's double. Ollie Brown hit his fourth homer leading off the fourth for the Padres' second run.

Ryan, who struck out 16 Padres in a 2-1 victory May 29, yielded six hits and struck out only four in eight innings. His record dropped to 6-3.

Giants Find No Takers

By FRED MCMANE
UPI Sports Writer

The San Francisco Giants seem intent on turning the National League Western Division into a pennant race, but they're having trouble finding any suitable challengers.

The Giants, who have led the NL West since the start of the season, dropped their eighth game in their last nine starts Thursday night when they lost to the Montreal Expos 3-1. However, the Giants once again failed to lose any ground and still lead the division by seven games.

San Francisco's slide has been softened by the ragged play of its nearest competitors, Los Angeles and Houston. The Dodgers, who trail the Giants by seven games, have compiled only a 5-4 record during the Giants' tailspin while Houston, which is nine games out of first place, is even worse at 3-6.

Despite the Giants' luck in maintaining a commanding lead, Manager Charlie Fox is beginning to voice some concern over the team's recent misfortunes.

"I'm no psychologist but I can tell you we're not hitting. We can't put it all together. We're leaving too many men on base," said Fox. "I'd say our pitching is okay but I think our two big men could pitch better. But you can't throw the whole load to them all the time. I noticed we're still seven games ahead but I'm not concerned about the other teams. I only want this team to start winning."

Carl Morton did the Giants in Thursday night with a seven-hitter as the Expos swept the three-game series. John Bate doubled home the tie and San Diego downed New York 4-2.

Morton drove in an insurance run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Los Angeles failed to take the Dodgers. Rick Wise allowed Cecil Upshaw bailed him out of advantage of the Giants' loss Los Angeles only seven hits, a ninth inning jam.

for the second straight night by including Willie Davis' first home run in the eighth.

Houston was defeated by Hank Aaron tripled home a home run in the first and scored on a single by Orlando Cepeda as the Braves hung on to defeat the Astros. Tom Kelley pitched place but are only .008 behind the first place Mets. St. Louis in another as the Phillies beat allowed only three hits before trails New York by only .001.

Bob Robertson's 12th homer of the year and the seven-hit pitching of Steve Blass sparked Pittsburgh's victory, which threw the NL East into a three-way tie for first. The Pirates technically remained in third place but are only .008 behind the first place Mets. St. Louis in another as the Phillies beat allowed only three hits before trails New York by only .001.

Orioles Off and Winging

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles have rival American League managers shaking their heads again. One is Bill Rigney, who saw the Orioles complete a three-game sweep of his Minnesota Twins Thursday night with a 12-0 rout. And another is Detroit's Billy Martin, whose Tigers kept winning in the AL East but fail to gain ground on the front-running Orioles. The Tigers made it three victories in a row and five in their last seven games Thursday night with a 3-2 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Streaking Frank Robinson drove in five runs with a homer and two singles and Jim Palmer spaced out six singles to gain his ninth victory of the season as the Orioles crushed Minnesota. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the defending World Champions and the 10th in their last 11 games.

"I still bear down when I get a lot of runs," said Palmer, who recorded his ninth complete game and first shutout of the season. "I try to pitch basically the same kind of home." Palmer added, "But I Fosse homered after a walk to game whether it's close or a was beginning to think we were Ray Lamb, who won his third earned run average. If you give weeks ago. We were scoring to 4-2, and a single to Graig up runs, it goes up.

"The Twins are fastball hitters and I'm a fastball pitcher," he explained. "I think getting out in front of them the way we did 10-0 after four (innings) demoralized them. game was rained out. Ray Fosse had a three-run homer and Ted Uhlaender doubled in two more runs as the Indians crushed Chicago. But I Fosse homered after a walk to game whether it's close or a was beginning to think we were Ray Lamb, who won his third earned run average. If you give weeks ago. We were scoring to 4-2, and a single to Graig up runs, it goes up.

Aaron, Mays and Bench Tops In National All Star Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves received 29,614 votes while Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants, two of the San Francisco Giants, despite having among the leading vote-getters in the early returns for the 1971 National League All-Star squad, it was announced today.

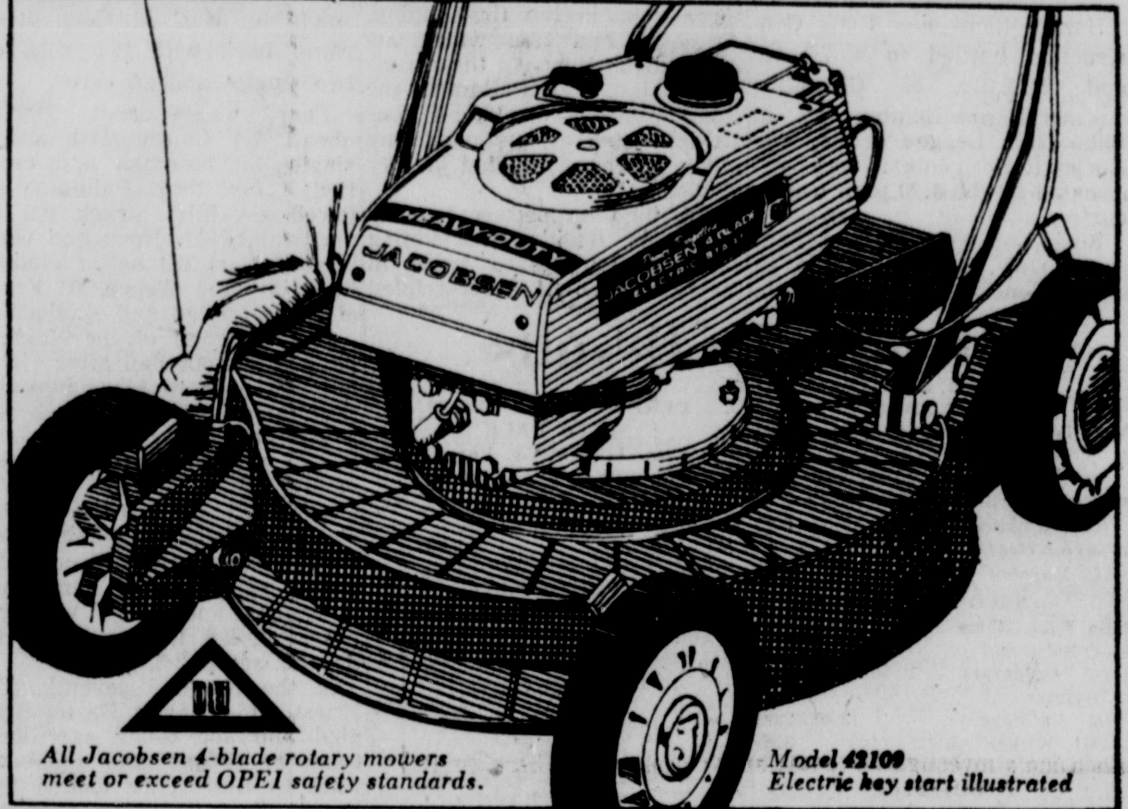

Aaron, who has appeared in 20 All-Star games, and Mays, who has been in 21, are the leaders in the voting for outfield berths. Aaron, who has 317 average with 18 homers through games of Wednesday, June 9, has 65,206 votes in balloting conducted of the fans while Mays, whose average stood at .329 with 13 homers, had 60,040.

Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the major league leader in homers with 20, is slightly ahead of Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals in the balloting for the third outfield spot. Stargell has 25,193 votes while Brock has 24,032.

Catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds leads all NL vote-getters with 69,506 votes and appears to be landslide winner for his position. Bench's closest competition comes from Jerry Grote of the New York Mets, who has 8,102 votes.

The closest race so far is at shortstop where New York's Bud Harrelson holds a slight lead over Don Kessinger of the Reds.

Joe Bostic Has 78 In NJCAA Golf

FLINT, Mich. — Joe Bostic posted a six-over-par 78 Thursday to advance from 51st place to a tie for 46th place but his 54-hole aggregate of 238 left him only a remote chance to make the All-America squad in the 72-hole National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) golf tournament at Flint Golf Club.

Bostic, the Ulster County Community College representative, carded 38-40-78 over the 6656-yard, par 36-72 Flint layout.

Slick greens again bothered the Ulster youth who hit 14 greens in regulation but could manage only one birdie—on the par-5, 518-yard 12th hole where he fired a 7-iron shot 15 feet from the pin and rolled the ball in.

Bostic's three rounds to date have been 78, 82 and 78. He was in 37th place after the first round, 51st at 36 holes and now tied for 46th place at 54 holes.

Meanwhile, Bob Heins of Orange County Community College fired 36-37-73 for one of the best rounds of the day and his best showing in the tournament. His 236 aggregate gave him a tie for 35th place. His opening rounds were 83 and 80.

Dan Kelly, the Region Tournament medalist at Wiltwyck Country Club, maintained his steady pace, as he fired his second 79 in a row. He opened with 77 Tuesday and his 54-hole total of 235 puts him in 25th and gives him an outside shot at the top 10, depending on how the leaders fare at the tougher Warwick Hills Golf and Country Club, where the finals are scheduled Friday. Florida and Texas golfers continued to dominate the competition involving 147 of the nation's finest junior college linksmen.

Jim Hurt of Brevard College (Florida) had a one-over-par 73 to maintain a slim one-stroke lead over teammate Mike Smith and Scott Steegner of Odessa, Texas Junior College.

Hurt, the most consistent shooter in the tournament, has posted successive rounds of 72, 74 and 73 over the tough Flint and Warwick layouts.

Smith, the first round leader at Flint with 70, has other rounds of 77 and 73. Steegner was one under par for Thursday's best round to go with his earlier par 72 and 77.

Brevard Junior College of Cocoa, Florida, was a cinch to wrap up the team championship. The Florida squad's three-match aggregate of 891 gave it a commanding 14-stroke lead over runnerup Miami Dade of Florida which had 905.

Other team leaders included Odessa, Texas, 912; Temple Texas, 919; and Marion Institute of Alabama, 934.

Coach Mike Perry, who accompanied Bostic to the nationals, had high praise for Joe's performance Thursday.

"The greens were still slick and most of the field had trouble on the putting greens," said the UCCC mentor. "Joe played probably his best round to date. He hit 14 greens in regulation figures and had a shot at least six or seven other birdies."

Nassau Community College, the Region XV champions, continued to have their troubles and a 987 team aggregate left them mired in 16th place.

"A hot round could put Dan Kelly among the first ten and earn him NJCAA All-America rating," said Perry. "But sub-70s have been scarce on these two tough layouts and at best he has only an outside chance."

The Flint course is the scene of the annual PGA Buick Open, while the 7,001-yard Warwick Hills club has hosted the United States Open in the past.

Old Jet Biggs Is New Redskin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Len picked up in a trade with the Los Angeles Rams along with Linebackers Myron Potlits, Maxie Baughan and Jack Pardee.

In exchange for Biggs, the Jets will receive the Redskins' first round draft choice next year and a choice in 1973 which Allen said could possibly be a Redskin also get what Allen described as "medium choices" in 1972 and 1973 from the Jets.

The announcement that Biggs had played out his option came as a major surprise since the Jets previously announced he had agreed to contract terms.

In statements in New York and Washington, each team said Biggs did not sign a contract in 1970 but had agreed to terms for 1970 and 1971 just three days after the May 1 option date.

Allen announced Thursday that the 28-year-old Biggs had signed a multi-year contract with the Redskins Tuesday after he was unable to reach agreement with the Jets.

The Redskins coach said he expected Biggs to be his starting right defensive end, playing alongside Diron Talbert who Al-

Youngsters Take Over

Blalock and Ahearn Leaders in LPGA

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—The unheralded youngsters get another crack at their well-heeled senior contemporaries today in the second round of the rich LPGA championship.

Youth in the persons of 25-year-old Jane Blalock and Kathy Ahearn, 22, carried a one-stroke lead out of the opening round at Pleasant Valley Country Club Thursday as one of the tournaments' top veterans, 1970 champion Shirley Englehorn, was forced to call it quits.

Miss Englehorn, 30, had to take herself out of the Eve Cigarette sponsored tournament when the ankle injury she suffered six years ago caught up with her.

Her voice breaking and the ailing ankle propped on a chair, the winner of three of the seven previous tournaments played on the same course joked "I feel like Canonero" while admitted she couldn't continue play despite her vacation she had taken to rest for the tourney.

Shirley used a pair of crutches to start her trip back to Caldwell, Ohio, for treatment she estimated would keep her off the ladies' pro tour for four to seven months.

The Misses Blalock and Ahearn, meanwhile, had plenty of others to worry about in the 17th annual LPGA Championship which will confer a $7,950 check on the winner.

Kathy Whitworth, winner of two straight tournaments and the LPGA's all-time earning leader, and another strong swinger, Donna Caponi, were the only other players to break par-73 and rank one stroke off the pace.

A record field of 76 assaulted the pin placements in the young leaders. It included a senior crack at their well-heeled contemporaries today in the second round of the rich LPGA championship.

"I am very sorry to withdraw," Shirley said, "but the whole leg just went numb. I couldn't feel it."

Joking that "I think I know every doctor in every state" while she awaited a physician, the defending LPGA champion said her withdrawal was "one of the greatest disappointments" of her golfing career.

"Once it's taken care of, I'll be back. I came here to win, I've won here before and I'll be back again to play," the spectacled Miss Englehorn said.

Gordon Excels At Dickinson

CARLISLE, Pa. — Howard Gordon, freshman from Phoenix, N.Y., was one of the leading point scorers on the successful Dickinson College golf team this spring.

Gordon scored 20 points, while winning seven and losing four individual matches. He posted a round average of 81.8 strokes.

The Red Devil linksmen won 10 and lost only three during the 1971 season.

Mrs. Richter Is Flag Winner

Mrs. Hubert Richter finished 12 yards from the 19th cup with her allotment of 31 strokes to place first in the Twaalfskill Women's Flag Tournament.

Runnerup was Mrs. Michael Groppuso (17 handicap), 21 yards from the 19th cup.

Other results were: Mrs. Bud Potter (34), 25 yards from the 19th cup; Mrs. Robert Avery (29), 100 yards from 19th cup; Mrs. Paul Coon (31), 200 yards from 19th cup; Mrs. Edmund O'Reilly (30), one foot from the 19th cup; and Mrs. William Merrill, Jr., 20 yards from 18th cup.

The Misses Blalock and Ahearn, meanwhile, had plenty of others to worry about in the 17th annual LPGA Championship which will confer a $7,950 check on the winner.

Kathy Whitworth, winner of two straight tournaments and the LPGA's all-time earning leader, and another strong swinger, Donna Caponi, were the only other players to break par-73 and rank one stroke off the pace.

Green Thumb Recommends Sweet Basil for Gardens

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

Here's a sweetly fragrant herb that needs to find a place in most gardens. In Italy, basil is a symbol of love. I understand many an Italian lover can be seen with a sprig of basil (basilico, they call it), tucked behind his ear when he goes to see his lady friend. In India, the basil is regarded as sacred, and Hindus have used it as a symbol of reverence for their dead. If you want something real nice in your garden try the ornamental basil called Dark Opal. This handsome foliage plant has purple-bronze leaves and is ideal for accents and borders, as well as in flower arrangements. This highly aromatic cooking herb is easy to grow. If you want your mouth to be nice and fresh all day long, chew on a piece of basil leaf. It makes an excellent "mouthwash." Another good tip is to put some basil leaves in a bottle of vinegar. It turns the color to a beautiful pinky-purple.

Sow seed outdoors in the garden and you'll have plenty of basil all summer long, since it makes good growth, if in sun and is well watered.

JOSEPH'S COAT: If you're looking for a spectacular touch in the garden, better try a few plants of Joseph's Coat, or Amaranthus. Plants grow three feet tall, but you can keep them shorter and more compact if you pinch the tips back, as this causes the base to branch out.

The Freeman does not answer the Green Thumb mail. For information write: George Abraham The Green Thumb Naples, N. Y. 14512

Leaves turn a rich maroon-red, with a bright cerise-red color above. I guarantee if you have Joseph's coat in your garden, you're going to have a lot of gardeners ask you what that plant is! It likes full sun, and a good supply of water. Plant is trouble-free and easy to grow. And while you're in the mood for spectacular items, there's still time to grow the Kochia or "Burning Bush," also called Summer Cypress. This gem grows three feet tall and evergreen until frost hits the feathery foliage. Then the plant turns red, hence the name "Burning Bush." A good feature about this fast growing annual is that you can sow the seed directly in the ground and have a temporary hedge by late summer. Use it in the background as it tends to make a lot of growth.

BIRCH LEAF MINER: The pest which causes the leaves to turn papery brown in summer is the birch leaf miner. Best control is to use a systemic known as Dimethoate or Cygon 2E, applied around the base of the tree at rate of one and a half teaspoons per gallon of water. If you have a sprayer, you can also use Lindane on the foliage, although we prefer to use systemics.

Lights Can Extend the Use of Your Yard

Outdoor living means out your yard habitable is wasted. Keep safety in mind when you plan your lighting. Paths, drives and steps should be given priority when planning be used along small paths and lights. Steps, obviously take precedence over everything.

Do It Yourself Guidelines For Maintaining Doorsills

Like worn and unshined shoes with a new suit, a worn door-sill on an otherwise well-kept house mars the entire effect.

The doorsill, or threshold, gets a great deal of wear, perhaps more than anything else in the house. It is stepped on and worn down. Weather beats at it. It is subject to decay.

More than appearance is involved. Once it has begun to wear it fails its main function—closing the gap between door and floor.

Include the doorsill when you paint. Paint it between times as well. Sand thoroughly each time and paint frequently. Keep out moisture by caulking all joints around the sill.

When a sill becomes badly worn or has started to rot, replace it with a new one. Stock thresholds are available at most lumber dealers. If you can't get the exact size buy one slightly larger and cut it to fit.

If possible remove the old threshold in one piece. Use it as a pattern for the new one. Open the door so that it clear the threshold. If it doesn't, remove the door from its hinges.

Remove the door stop. This is the thin strip of wood fastened vertically to the door jamb. Pry out gently with a chisel so that you do not damage it.

Sometimes the doorsill will come out at this point with no further trouble. In other cases the edges of the sill are under the jamb. If you can't pry out the old sill, use a mallet and chisel to split it.

You can save yourself this work, but add some to another part of the job by cutting the old sill flush with the jamb. Use a backsaw. I do you this new material so that it does not fit under the jamb but instead is flush with pieces of old material you left behind.

After you have pried up the old doorsill examine the area for old nails that might be sticking up. Remove these completely. Do not pound them in since they may work their way out and up in the new threshold.

Measure the new sill and trim where needed. When you are certain of the fit, put a coating of roofing compound on the underside. Add another to the surface on which it will rest.

To avoid splitting, drill pilot holes for the finishing nails. Make the holes slightly smaller than the nails and stagger them on both sides of a center line. Set the nails so that heads are below the surface. Fill with wood filler, sand and finish. Caulk where the sill rests on exterior surfaces and along all joint lines. Complete this before painting. Then use a good grade of floor and deck enamel. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

June Is Time To Seek Out Scale Insects

Scale insects are spongers. They board and lodge with their hosts — trees, shrubs, plants. By sucking plant juices from leaf and stem they can cause leaves to yellow, twigs and branches to die and have been known to kill trees.

June and July, says Robert A. Bartlett, president of The F.A. Bartlett Tree Expert Co., is the time to look for these pests, to control many of them.

Control can be achieved when just-hatched young are crawling and have not settled down to pine; Putnam scale on holly; White peach scale on privet; and cottony taxus scale on yew.

Scale insects are of different colors and various shapes. A juniper scale looks like a tiny fried egg, white with a yellow center. A rhododendron scale is tan, almost circular in shape, and infests both leaf and stem. The scale on holly is hard, round, dark gray with an orange center. Yew scale is soft, shell scale on boxwood; Rhododendron scale on rhododendron; Pine needle scale on spruce and elongated.

Trees, Birds Good for Each Other

Trees and birds generally are very good for each other.

For the most part, birds pick harmful bark insects from trees. For example, woodpeckers pluck out borers and bark beetles. The brown creeper keeps busy looking for insects, beetles and grubs as it works up the tree spirally. The nuthatch, house wren, cardinal, redstart, grosbeak, oriole, phoebe, chickadee and others (the bird-watchers like them all) delight in insects, moths, beetles and borers. Warblers delight in caterpillars, weevils, scale and plant lice. Sparrows enjoy insects, and some birds eat wintering insect eggs.

One bird that may injure certain trees is the sapsucker, which can cause girding as it drills close, orderly holes while feeding on trapped insects lured to the sap.

On the other hand, hemlock, fir, pine and other garden evergreens often are the homes and hiding places for the mourning dove, cardinal and other birds in winter, when they need such shelter.

You can help the birds by feeding them through the food-short months.

New Garden Books

So many homes have African violets. To help you tend them properly, comes Helen Van Pelt Wilson's African-Violet Book (Hawthorn Books). The book, which has many color and black and white photographs and line drawings has won strong praise from leaders of the African-Violet Society of America and Saintpaulia International.

The volume is the third revision, updating culture, exhibiting, judging, hybridizing, propagation by division, leaf cuttings, or seeds, soil mixtures and pest and disease control.

In Organic Gardening Without Poisons (Van Nostrand Reinhold Books), Hamilton Tyler, a professional gardener, offers a practical guide to creation and maintenance of natural gardens and restoration of gardens in which poisons have been used. It brings the gardener much general advice covering composting, mulching, companion plantings, and plant diseases, among other subjects.

Presbyterians Protesting Allocation for Angela Davis

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — United Texas Presbyterians received three reports Thursday protesting the allocation of $10,000 in church money for black militant Angela Davis.

Delegates to the Texas Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, USA, voted only to receive the statements, however. Officials said this meant they became part of the synod's proceedings but were not a position or stand.

Earlier, the delegates called on their denomination to make a detailed explanation of the gift to the Angela Davis Legal Defense Fund. The church's National Council on Church and Race authorized the allocation last month.

After the issue had been thrashed out in a long meeting Wednesday night and again on Thursday, a small group tried to re-open the subject in favor of a strong statement condemning the gift.

The group was ruled out of order by the moderator, Rudolph Guerrero. When he was challenged, the delegates upheld him by a resounding vote.

Arab Civilians Hit By Guerrillas

By United Press International
Guerrillas attacked Arab civilians leaving the occupied Gaza Strip for their jobs in Israel today, killing and wounding a number of them.

The commandos threw two grenades at Arabs waiting for buses in central Medina Square in Gaza town, and a third grenade exploded on a packed bus near the Deir El Balah refugee camp. At least two Arabs were killed and 66 wounded.

All the Arabs involved were going to their daily jobs in Israel. On Thursday night, two Israeli automobiles were attacked by Arab commandos but only one person was injured.

In Cairo, diplomatic sources said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's increasingly hard-line speeches have cast new doubts on hopes for a Middle East peace settlement.

Vandalism Being Probed In Queens

NEW YORK (AP) — Queens authorities are investigating vandalism at a new, unoccupied $53,000 home. Neighbors said the damage occurred because area residents believed it had been sold to a racially-mixed couple.

A band of six to ten whites wrecked the two-family semi-attached home late Wednesday night while a crowd of 100 persons stood outside and watched without calling police, witnesses reported.

The vandals smashed windows, ripped out electrical fixtures and flooded the basement. After police called by neighbors investigated and left, the vandals returned and tore up shrubbery and splattered paint on the house.

A relative of Joseph Passalacqua, builder of the home, said neighbors had threatened trouble if Passalacqua rented the home to blacks. The relative said Passalacqua had been negotiating sale of the house with a Filipino who is married to a white woman.

Queens Dist. Atty. Thomas Mackell and Borough President Sidney Levis denounced the vandalism. Police, Mackell's office and the New York City Human Rights Commission were investigating the incident.

After several postponements, the issue first came up for debate Wednesday night.

A committee's recommendation to censure the council for making the gift was rejected in favor of seeking an explanation of the guidelines followed by the council and its justification for the move.

On a vote of 114-110, the delegates adopted a resolution declaring that the gift has caused "confusion and unrest in the Synod of Texas."

"Our confusion is caused by uncertainty regarding the administrative procedures and the unfortunate timing of this allocation," the resolution said. Miss Davis, an admitted communist, is charged with conspiracy, kidnapping and murder in a shootout in San Rafael, Calif., last August that killed four persons including a judge.

One of the reports condemning the gift was filed by the Synod's Gulf Coast Presbytery, which includes the Houston-Galveston area.

"We protest the timing of this designation as deliberately provocative, being made just three days before General Assembly convened," the statement said in part. The issue came before the assembly at its meeting last month in Rochester, N.Y. "We protest the unproductive nature of this designation in creating a surge of protest and resentment against such dubious actions..." the statement added.

Another report protesting the gift came from the First Presbyterian Church in Wichita Falls, Tex. It asserted that there "can be little doubt" that the council's action "has lessened instead of strengthened the trust that members of the church should have in their agencies."

The synod closed its three-day meeting Thursday.

The United States, Sadat said, was participating in the occupation of Arab lands through continued military and financial support of Israel.

"America, in this way, has defined its position as Israel's partner in the aggression and hostility to the entire Arab nation," Sadat said.

Two days earlier Sadat called on the United States to speak out whether it is with Israel or not. "If America supports Israel's occupation of our land," he told front-line troops, "I will deal with it as a partner of Israel. If it has any other views, let it state them."

In Israel, a military source said Arab guerrillas firing automatic weapons ambushed two automobiles on the main road of the occupied Gaza Strip Thursday, injuring one of the drivers. The occupants of the two automobiles, nonmilitary personnel, returned the fire and then an Israeli Army patrol arrived and began searching for the commandos.

Kiwanis Gets 6 New Members

KINGSTON

The Kiwanis Education and Attendance Committee, under the direction of Clifford A. Henze, inducted six new members into the local service club at the weekly meeting. New members include Dr. Gerald F. Gorman, Rev. Msgr. Harold E. Hicks, Robert B. Murray, Rev. Msgr. Francis P. Brennan, John O'Leary, and Melvin E. Lafferty.

Kiwanians Hubert Hoderath, H. VanWyck Darrow, Frank H. Reis, and Dr. David C. Gaise participated in the induction ceremonies.

Mafia Chiefs

ISLE OF FILICUDI, Sicily (UPI)—The people of Filicudi returned home today with assurance that 15 Mafia chiefs—the Italian government banished to their island will be sent some place else. Most of Filicudi's 197 inhabitants left for Sicily proper in protest. They said the gangsters would ruin the island's tourism.

Bogus Money Found in Trunk Of Rented Car

NEW YORK (UPI)—Hertz rent-a-car employees readying a car for a customer Thursday opened the trunk and found $50,000—in counterfeit $20 bills.

The bogus money, according to police was wrapped in four bundles and placed in a shopping bag along with two $5,000 bonds issued by the port of New York Authority and the Virgin Islands Housing Authority.

Police said the black Cadillac had been removed from a street on Manhattan's west side after cruising Hertz officials recognized their company's license plates and noted that the tires had been replaced with bald ones. The car itself was overdue.

The Secret Service, which handles counterfeit cases, was called. They checked the money for fingerprints and began a search for the woman who rented the car.

The name of the woman, who gave Hertz addresses in Quebec and Manhattan was not released by police.

Detective Sergeant Dewey Vitarbo said there was no doubt the money was counterfeit.

He said the woman "knew it was queer," he said. "It was not a good counterfeiting job." He said some of the serial numbers were smudged, the general outlines on the bills unclear and color poor.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, June 12

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Some very dramatic or interesting benefits can come to you today or tonight. You would be wise to accept the things that arise as an opportunity to greatly improve whatever is important to you or vital to your needs. Take the time to show you are interested in whatever is modern and up-to-date and you make headway.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Talented individuals are your best bet today as well as making some particular call that can open up a whole new vista of success for you. Out to that important social affair in p.m. Make delightful new friends.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A bigwig can indirectly bring you some unexpected benefit provided you show your finest talents. Good day for expansion. Both credit and civic potentials can be augmented now. Think, then act.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Enlarge your vision so you can understand how others have become successful. Get information from right sources, whether they are persons, books or whatever. Drive with utmost care.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Start early on responsibilities that require much thought and time to finish. Then do the less important things. Evening will then be free for a charming time with mate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have a fine chance now to meet with a fascinating associate with whom you want to come to a better agreement. Then celebrate together without going to too much expense. Avoid gossip as much as you can.

VIRGO (August 22 to Sept. 22) You can never get that work done if you just keep deliberating about it, so delve right in and get it behind you. Take that health treatment you need. Don't procrastinate any longer on that, either.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put aside worries and dull routines and go out for a day of pleasure and seeing how the other half of the world lives. Mate is in an unusually fine mood. Don't spend too much money, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Improve conditions at home to your life is largely up to YOU! Establish order and cleanliness. See that all appliances, utilities are working fine. Sit down with kin and talk over the future intelligently. Don't lose your temper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You know exactly where you are headed and can now call on good friends for the assistance you need to gain your aims. Don't neglect to shop for needed items. Take care of that correspondence in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find a more modern system for operating properly in the future and you can have that big savings account you want. Talk the matter over with an expert who can give right ideas. Think straight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking clearly and quickly now, so make plans for whatever is uppermost in your mind and then start wheels rolling in right direction. Attend those social affairs to which you are invited. Discuss aims with good friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sit down and make plans for the coming weeks, months ahead early; then get into whatever it is that gives you the most pleasure. Something of a cultural nature is a natural for you. Show that you have finesse.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those dynamic young people with remarkable ability along many lines. When mature, will make a great success of outdated businesses that need modernization and will give new life to whatever is aged, which others might throw away. Could easily make some new discovery in scientific fields. The humanitarianism here can also lead to doing fine philanthropic work that benefits humanity. College preferred.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PETTING: (Q.) I have been going with my boy friend a year and a half and we are about to get engaged. We are both 18. What I want to know is if petting is a normal thing between boys and girls.

I will tell you that we do it, but I am not sure that it is right. —Yes, But, in Wyoming.

(A.) In commenting on petting, it is a good idea to have a definition of it. There are many forms of petting, and many young people engage in it in one form or another.

But, as you suspect, the fact that it is engaged in does not make it right.

My definition of petting is advanced sexual stimulation without intercourse. That "advanced" is a key word. Holding a girl's hand or kissing her good night can be sexual stimulation, but it is seldom advanced.

In petting, it is the degree of advancement that counts. Those who pet seriously often discover that the rate of advancement can be devastating.

And dangerous.

PILL PROBLEM: (Q.) I can't swallow a pill. Before, it didn't worry me because all I ever had to take was an aspirin now and then. And I could dissolve it in a glass of water. But now I have an allergy and have to take pills regularly.

The doctor said I would learn how. He didn't know me. The pill just won't slide down. — Road Block in Tacoma, Wash.

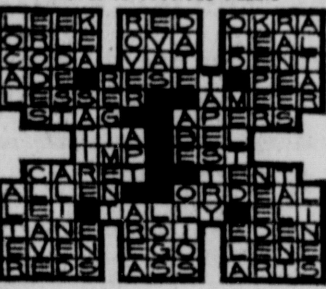

(A.) Take a big gulp of water. Hold it in your mouth. Hold your head back. Open your mouth. Pop the pill in. Close your mouth. Swallow. No problem!

MEXICO CITY UNREST — At least four persons were killed and more than 200 injured in Mexico City, Mexico, during a clash between police and about 20,000 university students brawling among themselves during a protest Thursday night.

The controversial "falcons" crouch behind automobiles during a shoot-out with students. Newsmen said they were not under city orders. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Four Killed in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A demonstration by 20,000 students turned into a battle Thursday night when "shock brigades" of apparent plainclothes police opened fire on the demonstrators. Sporadic shooting continued early today.

The rioting was the worst in Mexico City since the violence that preceded the 1968 Olympics.

Police said four persons were killed and 26 hospitalized and 159 arrested.

"Four snipers have been arrested and 16 abandoned weapons have been seized," a police spokesman said. "There are still some sporadic shots from snipers in the area."

Earlier, UPI cameraman Tony Halik said he saw six persons lying in a street "being treated and handled as dead persons—I assume they were dead."

Mayor Alfonso Martinez said

no plainclothesmen fired at the student demonstrators who were calling for labor union reform, university reform, and the release of "political prisoners."

However, news and photo reporters who saw the action, including a number of UPI correspondents, said the unidentified men arrived in city trucks and buses, addressed each other with such titles as "sergeant" and "lieutenant," and gave and received orders like policemen or soldiers.

Uniformed police on the scene referred to the men as "shock brigades."

The Presidential Palace said the rioting began with students of different political groups brawling. A spokesman said Communist, Trotskyite and other leftwing groups were mounting a protest march and a confrontation occurred with the rightwing political student organization known as MURO.

The protest march began at the 70,000-student National Polytechnical Institute — the scene of the 1968 demonstrations that brought 78 deaths, 40 of them in a gun battle in the courtyard of a housing development.

Thursday's protest march had only just begun when city police fired tear gas bombs to disperse the estimated 20,000 marchers. A UPI correspondent reported from the scene that "then groups of men jumped from state trucks and buses bearing no labels and charged the students scattered in all directions. I heard four shots."

He said "the men in plain clothes were very well organized. I asked some of them

Viet Cong Overwhelm Cambodian Unit

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Hundreds of Viet Cong overwhelmed a Cambodian unit and captured the district town of Srang, southwest of Phnom Penh, for the third time in less than a year, military sources said today.

In neighboring South Vietnam, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners stepped up attacks against allied positions along the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

UPI Correspondent Alan Dawson reported the Viet Cong overran the Cambodian battalion, which was under strength because many of the unit's men had been moved north to help in sustained fighting in marshlands east of Phnom Penh.

Srang, 25 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, fell to the Communists after 10 hours of fighting Wednesday, the sources said. The extent of casualties was unknown but "many" Cambodian defenders were killed and wounded, the sources said.

A relief battalion set out from the provincial capital of Kompong Speau early today to try to retake Srang but it ran into a Communist ambush and one government soldier was killed.

The fighting in an area 11 miles east of Phnom Penh has been going on for 13 days and Cambodian spokesmen said the Communists were trying to seize a marshy area in order to get within rocket range of the capital.

In Saigon, the U.S. command reported increased Communist artillery attacks against a string of allied bases near the DMZ.

Field reports said the Communists pounded Fire Support Base Fuller four miles south of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam with four rounds of 120mm mortar Thursday and a Soviet 122mm rocket fire hit Fire Base Alpha 2 near Gio Linh, two miles south of the demarcation line Thursday night. Another fire base just south of the DMZ and east of Alpha 2 was hit by several undetermined type shells.

A defensive position of a South Vietnamese infantry battalion a few miles southeast of Fuller was hit with a barrage of 82mm rounds.

Field reports and military sources said seven South Vietnamese were killed and nine wounded in the shelling.

An armored patrol of the 1st Brigade of the 3rd Division (mechanized) killed three Communist soldiers late Thursday five miles north of Cam Lo and 1 1/2 miles from the DMZ. Seven Americans were wounded.

In the Mekong Delta, South Vietnamese infantrymen and rangers backed by U.S. helicopter gunships killed 44 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in three clashes and an air strike Thursday.

Trade Doors Opened to Red China

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon is convinced the United States must restore its broken lines of communication having an important role for with China if there is to be future peace in Asia," he added.

In the friendliest gesture an American President has made to China since Mao Tse-tung's capture of the mainland in 1949, Nixon Thursday lifted the embargo on trade between the two countries.

"President Nixon looks upon these measures as a significant step to improve communications with a land of 800 million people after a 20-year freeze in our relations," said White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

"The President will later consider the possibility of further steps in an effort to establish a broader relationship with a country and people discussed the move with newsmen at the White House, said there has been no indication China is willing or able to buy much of anything from the United States.

In extending the olive branch to the Red Chinese, Nixon has moved far away from the cold war rhetoric which was his trademark in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

The significance of the step was far more diplomatic than economic. China's total trade now consists of about $2 billion each in imports and exports. Only about $1.5 billion of that is with non-Communist countries.

By contrast, U.S. imports and exports both exceed $40 billion annually.

G. Winthrop Brown, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for East Asia and the Pacific, who discussed the move with newsmen at the White House, said there has been no indication China is willing or able to buy much of anything from the United States.

In extending the olive branch to the Red Chinese, Nixon has moved far away from the cold war rhetoric which was his trademark in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

Ziegler said the President has been working for two years to end the strict isolation between the United States and China.

Nixon, almost as an afterthought, also announced he has lifted restrictions on the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union and other Communist nations of East Europe. As a result, U.S. wheat shippers may sell freely to China, the Soviet Union or any other country where they can find customers.
